U.A.W.A. Recognition Is The Only Important Block To Strike Peace

Detroit, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Gov. Frank Murphy, in a formal statement tonight, confirmed reports that the chief obstacle in settlement of the automotive strike is whether or not the General Motors Corporation would recognize the United Automobile Workers of America in 20 plants now on strike.

The governor disclosed that "nearly all" of the other questions "have been ironed out and adjusted harmoniously" during the more than 30 hours spent in conference by opposing leaders during the past four days.

"The real issue," he said, "Is whether bargaining is to be exclusively with the UAWA or on the basis of representation."

The governor's complete statement, issued more than an hour and a half after the ninth session of the parley was adjourned until 11 a. m. Monday, follows:

"The conference has had a number of questions before it. Nearly all of them have been ironed out and adjusted harmoniously. I am confident the others can be solved. The chief difficulty relates to the question of whether UAWA shall be in the exclusive bargaining agency for all employes.

"On this question, both sides have offered suggestions. The union representatives asked that the UAWA, as the bargaining agency in this conference, be recognized as the collective bargaining agency for the employes of the 20 plants closed by the existing strike.

"General Motors Corporation has offered to recognize the UAWA as the bargaining agency for its members only, reserving the right to deal with any other employe group. The real issue is whether bargaining is to be exclusively with the UAWA on the basis of representation.

"The conference will continue its discussions and deliberations on Monday in the fervent hopes there will be a solution satisfactory to both sides and in the public interest. The public will appreciate that these men are working very earnestly in an effort to solve the problem and bring the conference to a successful conclusion."

The governor's statement was the first formal announcement of what went on inside the conference rooms. He called the parley into session last Wednesday morning "at the wish of the president" and has been in frequent telephonic communication with him since then.

Between conference sessions, the governor has kept a wary eye on Flint, Mich., potential danger spot of the strikes where more than 38,000 General Motors employes are idle. Twice there have been violent outbursts there and about 40 persons were injured.

Gov. Murphy informally commended military and state police for the manner in which they have handled the Flint situation.

"It is the best handled job," he said, "in the industrial history of Michigan."

Sheriff Thomas Wolcott at Flint holds a court order for the arrest of "stay-in" strikers, now in their fourth day of violating an injunction for evacuation, and of union leaders. He has delayed action pending word from the governor, who Wolcott said had "indicated very strongly" that any violence "could bring but one thing—military rule."

POLICE, TROOPS IN FLINT GUARD AGAINST RIOTS

Hope For Speedy Settlement Of Strike War

Flint, Mich., Feb. 6.—(AP)—National Guard and civil authorities maintained unceasing vigilance here tonight in the hope that General Motors strikes might be settled without further violence in this "hot spot" of the labor controversy.

Sheriff Thomas W. Wolcott ordered in a court writ yesterday to arrest "stay-in" strikers occupying two Fisher body plants, said he would avoid "any action that might result in martial law."

He said he had received no reply from Governor Frank Murphy to his request for National Guard assistance in enforcing the writ.

Key figure in the latest strike developments, the bulky sheriff was bitterly criticized by irate anti-strikers for delaying action. He received numerous telephone calls during the day from persons who demanded immediate eviction of the strikers. He also received many calls from persons who offered suggestions for removing the men from the plants.

"I repeat my position that I am not going to do anything until I get an answer from the governor," he said today.

"We're going to avoid anything that might lead to a declaration of martial law. Any act of violence certainly would lead to military rule. Governor Murphy indicated this very strongly in his statement of yesterday.

"When I see the need for martial law I will be the first to ask for it, but at this time it is neither necessary nor desirable. The situation is not out of control."

He warned that any attempt of anti-strikers to take the law in their own hands would result in their immediate arrest.

The sit-down strikers, who have declared they are ready to die defending their positions, remained barricaded in the plants. The writs now in the hands of the sheriff call for the arrest of strikers in Fisher body plants numbers 1 and 2, pickets and officers of the United Automobile Workers.

"TIRED"

Washington, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Morris L. Cooke stepped out as head of the $50,000,000-year Rural Electrification Administration today to resume a vacation voyage interrupted when he was drafted into the New Deal Service in 1933.

News of his resignation came as a surprise to his associates and even to his own staff.

He was enroute to Philadelphia when the White House announcement was issued, but his office quoted him as saying he was "tired and wanted rest."

FRANCO MARCHES ON HARBOR CITY, REFUGEE-FILLED

Leads Attack On Malaga, Harbor City Of Socialists

Would Crush One of Last Remaining Sea Outlets

With the Fascist Southern army marching on Malaga, Feb. 6—(AP)—The converging land, air and sea forces of the Insurgent Generalissimo, Francisco Franco, today drew the lines of a great Fascist offensive several kilometers nearer Malaga, the refugee-crowded port which is the government's most vital remaining outlet on the Southern coast.

The drive was launched today with nine vigorous thrusts from the Northeast, North and Southwest.

As the Insurgent cordon was drawn tighter around the beleaguered port numbers of prisoners and quantities of supplies were gathered in. Fascist officers said they were meeting little resistance.

North of Malaga seven columns advanced along mountain roads, carrying the front several kilometers nearer that city. Fascist cavalry carried out mopping-up operations in the hills, where the Socialist defenders were gathering in small groups hoping to continue a guerilla defense.

On the Northeast the villages of Zafarraya and Ventas de Zafarraya, about 21 miles from Malaga, fell to General Frnco's troops. The Insurgents gained control of the crest of the Sierra Tejeda range, from where their field guns covered the fertile valleys of the Guaro and Zabar rivers.

Along the seaboard the Insurgent troops pushed the Loyalists several kilometers toward Fuengriola. (A Gibraltar dispatch said Insurgent headquarters at Algeciras announced the capture of that seacoast town, 20 miles Southwest of Malaga.)

The highway in that sector was under the guns of the Fascist warships, which compelled the government troops to limit their resistance to the hills overlooking the road.

The objective of this sweeping drive was to cut off and crush one of the last remaining outlets of the Spanish Socialist government. The attackers already claimed to have surrounded Malaga.

Larke units of cavalry formed advancing fingers of Franco's fill-forced push, feeling the way over the rolling terrain for motorized columns.

The mounted troops had a decided superiority over the modern "gasoline gauchos" in the hills and valleys of the Malaga region.

Ahead of infantry legions, the armored trucks and light tanks rumbled down the valleys and highways toward the Mediterranean city once boastful of its standing as a resort.

Crack cavalrymen scoured the hills, wood and mountain trails, cleaning out opposition which sought to stem the tide of attack with guerilla warfare.

Pope Will Speak Over Radio Today

Vatican City, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI did a full day's work from his wheeled divan today and retired early to rest for the task of addressing the Eucharistic Congress in Manila by radio tomorrow.

Heavy rains and low barometric pressure reacted upon the pontiff, troubled by a recurrence of pain in his legs, but he worked steadily to prepare the text of his speech.

Today was the 15th anniversary of his election to the highest office of his church, and he received Cardinal Pacelli, Vatican secretary of state, and a few other visiting Ecclesiastics.

The Pope's physicians, noting a general improvement in his condition despite the pain in his legs, were confident he would be able to compete his brief discourse to the Eucharistic gathering without difficulty. The address begins at 8 a. m. E. S. T.

Five hundred thousand persons were expected to listen at Manila to the speech and thousands of others had available the radio if they desired to listen in other parts of the world.

Police Search For Moron-Murderer of Mary Ellen Babcock

Meager Clues May Lead to Capture; Body Left in Field

Buffalo, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Police tonight examined a blood-stained pocket knife and a thread of torn wool as clues to the slayer who attacked 18-year-old Mary Ellen Babcock and left her body in a field last night.

The knife was picked up near the body, and the wool fragment was taken from one of the young woman's fingernails.

Another possible clue, police said, was a man's scarf, maroon and white, picked up in the field soon after the body was discovered at noon today.

Stabbed in the face, back, chest and legs, the body lay in a ditch, surrounded by trash. Two frightened eight-year-old boys discovered it while they were at play and ran home to tell their parents.

Miss Babcock was viciously attacked, apparently by a degenerate," said Assistant Chief of Detectives Frank J. McCarthy.

Innumerable cuts on her hands, police said, bore witness to her fight against the man who is believed to have met her as she walked home from a wake, about 9 o'clock last night.

From the fragment in Mary Ellen's fingernail, police hoped to determine the quality and color of the attacker's outer garments.

MECCA

Washington, Feb. 6.—(AP)—American Jews contributed $2,076,327 last year for colonization, immigration and general reconstruction in Palestine.

The United Palestine appeal, through which the money was raised, reported this tonight at the opening session of the national conference for Palestine.

Admit Insurgent Progress South Of Madrid In Spite Of Desperate Resistance

Bulletin

New York, Feb. 7—(Sunday)—(AP)—Elihu Root, America's eldest statesman, and former member of two presidential cabinets died early today of bronchial pneumonia at his home here after two weeks' illness.

The world famous statesman would have been 92 years old on February 15.

During a half century of public service he held many high offices and his greatest achievements were in furthering arbitration of international disputes. He was an organizer of the World Court and served on the permanent court of arbitration at the Hague.

He was Secretary of War under McKinley, Secretary of State under Theodore Roosevelt, United States Senator from 1909 to 1915, head of President Wilson's mission to the Kerensky regime in Russia and delegate to the Washington Arms Conference of 1921.

Madrid, Feb. 6.—Insurgent progress south of Madrid in spite of desperate resistance by government troops—"some of whom refused to retire and were crushed by enemy tanks"—was admitted by a bulletin of the Madrid defense junta tonight.

The Fascist insurgents attacked in strength today at three points along the Jarama river, south and southeast of the capital—Maranosa, San Martin de La Vega and Ciempozuelos. The stubborn Socialist defense compelled the enemy to bring up reinforcements.

Then, the bulletin said, the government defenders withdrew to strategic positions already placed so as to intercept possible insurgent drives against the Madrid-Valencia road, the city's most important link with the outside. (San Martin de La Vega is 10 miles from that road."

The bulletin also reported bitter fighting at Santa Maria de La Almeda, west of El Escorial, but government positions were unchanged.

Leftist Spain's troops drove fiercely on insurgent-held Cordoba tonight in an attempt to seize that rich provincial capital.

Their Fascist foes laid siege to the strategic Mediterranean seaport, Malaga, about 80 miles to the south.

In Madrid, where three months of attack and counter attack have failed to break the stalemate between a beleaguered city and its assailants, Jose Giral Pereira, minister without portfolio in the Socialist government, expressed willingness to see foreigners ousted from the "little world war."

He added the proviso that dreaded Moorish troops in the ranks of Fascist Generalissimo Francisco Franco be barred.

(The neutrality sub-committee, considering a plan to set up an internationinal patrol of Spanish waters to exclude materials of war and seeking to set a deadline for stopping the influx of war-bent partisans, has been called for negotiations in London starting Tuesday.)

Cairo Still Holds To All-Night Watch Over 60 Foot Levee

Water Level Is Still Well Above Housetops of The City

Cairo, Ill., Feb. 6.—(AP)—With the Ohio still more than 19 feet above flood stage, Cairo maintained an all-night watch tonight on the bolstered levee guarding its saucer-like position at the river's confluence with the Mississippi.

By hundredths of an inch, the record flood fell to a stage of 59.30 feet, but the waters still coursed outside the seawall at a level well above many Cairo housetops.

Tension relaxed in pace with the slow recession of the river from its peak of 59.62 feet, but there was no relaxing of vigilance. The city was on guard against any accident—A barge breaking loose and crashing into the wall, for example—that might turn victory into defeat.

All able-bodied men were ready at a moment's notice for emergency duty on the levee and Mayor Bode's order against the return of evacuated women and children was being enforced by deputy sheriffs stationed along the city's lone outlet—U.S. Highway 51.

When the refugees are permitted to return, probably next week, they will find the city virtually undamaged by the flood. Sand boils were causing some difficulties, however.

Rescued Miner Is Anxious to Work

Clarksburg, W. Va., Feb. 6.—(AP)—Robert Johnson waited tonight for rest and food to restore some of the 43 pounds he lost during his eight-day entombment in an abandoned Flemington mine.

But as soon as he's strong enough to swing a pick the 36-year-old rural mail carrier said he intended to return to his spare-time work in the mine, from which rescuers carried him yesterday.

His face still covered with a nine-day old beard and his arms and hands aching from slate cuts, Johnson told from his hospital cot how he had trapped himself by taking a short cut in the subterranean passages of the old mine.

He entered the mine mouth, about a mile from Flemington, on the night of Jan. 27, with two companions to clear clogged drains. They became separated. After that—Johnson said:

"I thought I knew a short cut down, and I did under ordinary circumstances."

He missed the short cut, his carbide light went out, then began the days of wandering in the dark.

20,000 Brides of 15 Years or Under In U. S. by Census

New York, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The child bride is no stranger to America, the Census Bureau records showed today, even though a nine-year-old "Mrs." may be.

There are an estimated 5,000 or more child brides under the age of 15 the records show. Include those who are 15, and the total reaches 20,000.

And the number, the records indicate, has been increasing for the past 40 years.

In 1890, 1,411 brides of under 15 were recorded, not including 29 widows and divorcees. In twenty years their number was up to 3,482. By 1930, the figure was 4,506. At the rate of increase shown, today's figure would be more than 5,000.

Government figures offer no breakdown below 15 years of age; therefore they hold no indication whether 9-year-old Eunice Winstead, who married 22-year-old Charlie Johns in Tennessee, has sister brides as youthful in other parts of the country.

But there undobutedly are a number of child brides of 12, the age at which Leona Roshia married Stanley Backus in Watertown, New York.

SIT-DOWN STRIKERS TO GET CHICKEN DINNERS

Flint, Mich., Feb. 6.—(AP)—More than a half ton of chicken went into the pot tonight for the Sunday dinners of hundreds of sit-down strikers occupying three General Motors plants here.

The cooking was done in a United Automobile Workers kitchen directed by Mrs. Dorothy Krause, attractive wife of Henry Krause, editor of the Flint Auto Worker.

The kitchen, formerly a public restaurant in the vicinity of the striker-occupied Fisher Body plant No. 1, feeds strikers, their wives and children, estimated to total 5,000 persons.

Mrs. Krause said the cost since Monday, when a sit-down strike began in Chevrolet Plant No. 4, had been more than $5,000.

Hamilton Says Republicans Must 'Question' Court Plan

Pittsburgh, Feb. 6.—(AP)—John D. Hamilton, Republican National Chairman, said tonight that President Roosevelt sought to enlarge the Supreme Court "so his policies may be" imposed upon our people by justices tacitly pledged to that end before they are appointed."

In an address to the Amen Corner at a local hotel, Hamilton said the Republican party was "confronted with an immediate task—that of questioning" the program presented Congress yesterday by Mr. Roosevelt.

That program, Hamilton argued, would destroy "every vestige of the hope expressed by Madison that this court would 'be an impenetrable bulwark against every assumption of power in the legislative or the executive'."

Discussing Republican policies, Hamilton suggested that his party be the "opposition" party such as exists in the British Parliamentary system.

"Every free country, for the secure perpetuation of its freedom," he argued, "needs both a responsible government and an opposition that will be valient and vigorous. No substitute for the Republican party in that role is visible on the horizon of American politics."

Turning the events of last fall, the Republican chairman said he believed his party was defeated "primarily because of two ingredients in the 1936 salad bowl of American politics—prosperity and propaganda."

He quoted former President Hoover as telling him in substance as early as April 1934 that:

"By the fall of 1936 we shall have a prosperity and whether it is real or fictitious will be of little political importance. The Republican party will be in a position of explaining that prosperity and will be obliged to resort to academic arguments."

DEADLOCK OVER MONEY BILL TO AFFECT RELIEF

Failure To Pass Would Stop Some Of The Payments

Senate Proper May Balk at Rider on Investigations

Washington, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Informed legislators expressed anxiety tonight lest a threatened deadlock over a $950,000,000 appropriation bill might lead to a suspension of relief payments in many parts of the country.

The appropriation, a deficiency measure which includes $789,000,000 for unemployment and flood relief, already has passed the senate and house, but in somewhat different form in each.

Though spokesmen of both chambers have reached a compromise, several legislators expressed belief the senate proper would balk at a "rider" which would prohibit the use of regular federal employes by congressional investigating committees after June 30.

By a vote of 72 to 0, the senate recently struck from the original bill a house proposal to eliminate the practice immediately. But members of a joint senate-house committee appointed to iron out differences over the measure agreed yesterday to recommend the compromise proposal to their respective houses.

Chairman Buchanan (D-Tex.) of the house appropriations committee, one of the conferees, led the fight for the rider but declined to venture a prediction on the senate's attitude toward it.

As originally phrased, the rider would have interfered with activities of two senate committees investigating railway financing and alleged violations of civil liberties. Both of these committees have been using personnel borrowed from the works progress administration and the interstate commerce commission.

Buchanan indicated he would make a vigorous fight for the rider, although emphasizing the need for passage of the bill by Tuesday.

"The bill has got to get through by Tuesday," he asserted. "Otherwise they will have to begin suspending relief payments in many sections of the country."

Meantime the Chamber of Commerce of the United States said today that passage of the bill without sharp increases "in appropriations is rather a favorable augury for the taxpayer."

Mussolini's Son Weds Sweetheart Of His Childhood

Il Duce and Wife Attend Ceremony in St. Joseph's Church

Rome, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini's eldest son, Vittorio, and his Milanese sweetheart were married today at St. Joseph's church while papa looked on with beaming pleasure.

There were drizzling rain and mist but crowds gathered nevertheless to cheer the 20-year-old Vittorio and blonde Orsola Buvoli, 22-year-old daughter of a modest family.

Il Duce and his wife, Donna Rachele, attended the nuptial mass and the marriage service, performed by the Reverend Giovanale Pascucci, pastor of the church, which is not far from the Mussolini home.

Several hundred persons, including high Italian officials, viewed the wedding ceremony. Approximately 1,000 stood outside to see the party come and go.

Bittorio's fellow officers in the air force formed an arch of swords for the newlyweds as they left the church. From there, in accordance with Roman custom, they went to St. Peter's Cathedral to be received by Monsignor Kaas. There another crowd cheered them.

MOTHER SAYS YOUNG BRIDE IS EIGHTEEN

Watertown, N. Y., Feb. 6.—(AP)—A City Court Judge was called on today to decide whether Leona Roshia Backus, New York's "child bride", is a child or woman.

The girl was brought into court as a 12-year-old, for a hearing on her marriage, but a controversy developed when her mother testified she was 18.

If this age is correct, Leona was old enough to marry legally in New York state and the rape case against her husband, Stanley Backus, apparently could not be sustained.

Detective Samuel Roberts contended that Leona was not 18, but 12 as he said, the mother had been quoted as saying earlier. Roberts asserted state police had informed him state health department records gave the girl's age as 12.

The story of the mother, Mrs. Mary Roshia, was supported by two of Leona's brothers, Edward and Joseph, Jr.

Another brother, George, and a sister, Mrs. Marian Reynolds, testified they didn't know Leona's age.

Judge Crandall F. Phillips adjourned the hearing for a week to await the arrival of the birth record alleged to exist at Albany.

Prospect Of Struggle Before Nation In Plan To Reorganize Courts

Washington, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The nation faced the prospect tonight of a terrific struggle between leaders eager to marshal public opinion for or against President Roosevelt's plan to reorganize the federal courts.

Mr. Roosevelt gave no sign that he would participate, but aides reported he had received a number of urgent requests to carry the fight to the people by radio.

Opposition leaders moved immediately to the attack. John D. M. Hamilton, Republican national chairman, declared in an address that the president's program would destroy every vestige of hope for an "impenetrable bulwark" against legislation and executive assumptions of power.

A possibility arose that supreme court justices themselves might have a word to say, before congress acts, about the president's plan to name six new men to the high tribunal and reform the federal judicial system all down the line.

Senators Van Nuys (D-Ind) and Burke (D-Neb) said they would ask the senate judiciary committee to invite supreme justices to testify before it.

The committee will meet Monday. But the president's proposal can not come before it officially then because the plan has not yet been introduced in the senate.

Committee Chairman Ashurst (D-Ariz), after some previous hesitation, announced today he would introduce the president's bill Monday.

Five members of the senate group have spoken for the reorganization, five have expressed outright opposition or criticism, and another—Van Nuys—discussed the program guardedly today.

While he agreed with many of the president's statements of objectives, Van Nuys said, "we may all differ as to the means of accomplishing those objectives."

Four other members of the group have declined comment and three were not in the capital.

The house judiciary committee set Tuesday for initial consideration of the president's message.

The supreme court, six of whose members past 70 would face the alternative of retiring or seeing additional members appointed under the Roosevelt bill, kept aloof today from the entire controversy.

The justices, who long have had a general rule against interviews, banned newspapermen from their section of the supreme court building except in event of special appointments.

"Of course not," Justices Sutherland and Roberts smilingly replied to reporters' requests for comment. Chief Justice Hughes gave word through a secretary that he likewise would have nothing to say.

At noon, the justices assembled in their conference room for the regular Saturday session to dispose of pending business. All were present.

It was the first time since last October that Justice Stone had attended a conference. He recovered but recently from an extended illness.

GMC WOULD ENJOIN CLEVELAND PICKETS

Cleveland, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The General Motors Corporation sought in court today to enjoin mass picketing at its strike-closed Fisher Body plant here, and the United Automobile Workers of America replied the action was part of a "campaign of intimidation and effort to undermine the union."

William J. Corrigan, counsel for the Union's Fisher local, said General Motors "had no serious intention" of opening the plant even if the injunction was granted.

W. K. Stanley, General Motors counsel, estimated the strike had cost workers, $1,500,000 in wages.

A union motion to again postpone the case was overruled. Corrigan in asking for the continuance said that the action might jeopardize negotations under way in Detroit for settlement of the strike.

LIQUOR LEADS CAUSES OF MOTOR ACCIDENTS

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 6.—(AP)—An all time high in monthly motor vehicle fatalities was chalked up in Illinois last December, the state division of highways reported today, when 313 persons were killed in 1,743 accidents.

Showing also that for the first time accidents were reported in every county in the state, the report led F. Lynden Smith, director of the department of public works and buildings to make a state-wide appeal for further caution.

"Only when an aroused public rises in indignation against the reckless drivers who are making shambes of the highways will our accident rates be cut," the director said.

Pedestrians, speeders and drivers who had been drinking led the list of causes of accidents analyzed.

The report disclosed 31 persons were killed Christmas eve and 12 New Year's eve.

TRAGIC BIRTHDAY

Newbrugh, N. Y., Feb. 6. —(AP)— A baby without an esophagus, Patricia Ann Sovik, rounded out the first year of her life in St. Luke's hospital here today.

Despite two cases of pneumonia during the current winter, she weighs 15 pounds, some six pounds below normal.

The baby is fed orange juice, cod liver oil, milk and other fluids through a tube.

HORNER AVOIDS SHOWDOWN ON PAROLE ISSUES

Appointments Do Not Include Any For Board

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 6.—(AP)—Governor Horner's first batch of second term appointments, quickly confirmed by the senate this week, indicated comparatively few changes would be made in the top code department jobs but avoided a show-down on the parole issue.

The governor said today he would forward other nominations as soon as time permits but did not reveal whether he intended to reappoint the seven members of the parole board.

In the first group of nearly sixty appointments, most of names were those of holdovers from the first Horner administration. Changes were comparatively few and did not involve major posts.

The list wasn't complete. It included the tax and industrial commissions and mining boards, but omitted the parole board and such agencies as the commerce,liquor, racing and athletic commissions.

As the results of criticism and the announced intention of some legislators to ask for parole changes, reappointment of the present board would have provided opportunity for an attack on the senate floor during the vote on confirmation.

As it was, nothing was said in bills or debate about the parole issue this week while the 60th General Assembly settled down to its first attempt at routine work.

Legal experts said it wasn't necessary, although customary, for the governor to make reappointments when officials hold over into the next term. But the fact that names of all departmental directors were sent to the senate for approval was taken as an indication that the others would follow.

Democratic harmony in the senate was marred only by the effort of Louis O. Williams of Clinton to have declared vacant the seats of Chicago legislators who are on public payrolls in Cook county. Williams, who two years ago was the Horner senate spokesman and who was replaced as executive chairman a month ago, said Mandamus action would be started in the supreme court against "dual job holders."

Speaker Louie E. Lewis again delayed the appointment of House committees but promised they would be announced Tuesday, with few changes.

Strangely Wooed Girl May Say Yes on Radio Program

New York, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Miss Florence Hurlbut, for love of whom a publicity-minded Excelsior Springs, Mo., man chained himself to a radiator, said "yes" today to his importunities that she change his chains of steel to the bonds of matrimony.

(Back in Excelsior Springs the young man, Harold Hulen, unlocked his fetters—he had the key all the time—after somebody laid a charge of disturbing the peace against him. He had vowed to continue his "sit-down" strike in his lady love's apartment house until such a time as she should surrender to his proposal of wedlock.

(After he had unlocked himself, the charge of disturbing the peace was dropped, and Mr. Hulen immediately dedicated himself to awaiting Miss Hurlbut's formal acceptance).

Miss Hurlbut flew to New York City today. Tomorrow night she will deliver her formal acceptance (via radio). She will tell Mr. Hulen—unless she changes her mind overnight, which is her privilege—that she (1) loves him and (2) will become his wife.

"I feel better," she sighed in her Broadway hotel suite today, "because, after all,—well, it's so silly."

"NO LONGER ENDURE"

Newark, N. J., Feb. 6.—(AP)—The New Jersey State Bar Association today adopted a resolution opposing enactment of the president's court reorganization plan, and set up a special committee to combat it. Officers said 450 lawyers attended and only a small minority opposed the action.

Merritt Lane of Newark, said that if the program was enacted "what we understand to be constitutional government will no longer endure in this country."

Your Money's Worth

The average man and woman doesn't object to ordinary expenditures if they get their money's worth. For that reason Jacksonville's Semi-annual Dollar Day has always enjoyed wide popularity. On Dollar Day it's easy to see—easier than most other days of the year—that the values are worth the price.

Tuesday of this week another Dollar Day will be held in Jacksonville. Hundreds of previous Dollar Day patrons will be out bright and early, knowing from experience that the special sales event means genuine savings for them. Novices at Dollar Day shopping will join the crowds. They, too, will be convinced that Dollar Day is not just an idle gesture on the part of the merchants.

Dollar Day is a cooperative proposition on the part of a large number of mercantile establishments. Men's stores, women's stores, drug stores, auto supply, novelty, furniture and grocery stores, join in offering the most attractive bargains of the year.

Prices are slashed; new and old merchandise is featured in this special sales event, as the merchants prepare for the coming of spring. Dollar Day shoppers can find about anything they want at prices considerably under the usual mark.

Shoppers in Jacksonville get their money's worth the year 'round. There is always a basis for fair value. But once in a while, the business houses cut loose with something special like Dollar Day. Then the values and savings are more apparent—the buyer gets a clean-cut conviction that he has made his dollar go further.

Jacksonville merchants invite their old friends to visit them Tuesday. They desire, also, to make new friends.

Dollar Day will do it!

Will History Repeat

Jacksonville was one of the first sizeable towns in Illinois to "go dry" under the old local option laws.

It was in 1908 that voters of this city outlawed the saloon. The job was done after stirring campaigns in which the "wets" and "drys" staged a typical contest to decide this issue of public policy.

For more than a quarter of a century Jacksonville was legally dry, while a number of other Central Illinois cities permitted the sale of liquor until the arrival of national prohibition. Beardstown, Arenzville, Springfield and Virden were among the towns that remained wet for a number of years after Jacksonville voted out saloons.

With the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the return of intoxicating liquor, Jacksonville again faces the same question that it did in 1908. Shall the sale of liquor be permitted to continue, or shall the city again enter the dry column?

Petitions have been prepared and will be circulated during the next few days to call a vote on the question at the April election. Forces in favor of prohibiting the sale of liquor in the city have announced intention to secure 2,500 signatures to place the proposition on the ballot.

The outlook is similar to that in 1908. The drys will rally forces, with a firm conviction that the sale of liquor must go from Jacksonville; the interests engaged in the sale of whiskey, beer and other forms of liquor, abetted by exponents of personal liberty, will draw up their lines in defense of the business.

Spokesmen for the dry forces will point to the moral issue involved; they will appeal to voters to free the city from a traffic that they believe constitutes an evil.

Wets will counter with facts tending to show that the liquor industry furnishes an important revenue, which would depress conditions if it were cut off. They will point to the number of persons who would be jobless if the city bans the sale of liquor.

Dry forces will argue that money now being spent for liquor would be spent for the necessities of life.

Champions of the wets will contend that the money spent here would go elsewhere if the liquor business is defeated.

The wet and dry battle that has existed for years and years does not change in complexion. The arguments are largely the same; the issues may be recognized from one generation to the next.

So it simmers down to a matter of public opinion, with some generations strictly avowed to defeat the liquor business, and others content to tolerate it.

Home Town Loyalty

Great men have returned to the scenes of their youth to spend the remainder of their days; famous figures have often made gestures of friendship to the home communities in which they were reared; but there seldom has been an instance of home town loyalty that rivals the offer of John W. Haussermann, a native of New Richmond, Ohio.

New Richmond was in the path of the Ohio river flood, one of the hardest hit communities in the Cincinnati area. Mr. Haussermann, one of the nation's wealthiest men, offered last week to pay the flood rehabilitation bill at his home town.

The former judge-advocate and attorney general of the Philippine Islands during the administration of President Taft, now in Manila P. I., asked a complete report on the condition in the village of 1800 persons, three miles from his palatial farm home and birthplace.

Unofficial estimates of flood damage in New Richmond place cost of rehabilitation at $100,000.

Such a sum of money may not be large compared to the size of Mr. Haussermann's personal fortune. But an expenditure by him of that amount would be a true testimonial of his devotion to the community in which he was reared.

How to Foil Kidnapers

Now that the shadow of the kidnaper is again across the thresholds of America, there should be some general knowledge about what should be done if he enters the door.

Courtney Ryley Cooper, in a copyrighted article, stated that first of all, in every home in America, rich or poor, there should be posted a telephone number. It is National 7117, Washington, D. C.

Here is a number, Mr. Cooper said, which never answers "busy" and where there does not exist such a thing as "no response. I'll try them again in twenty minutes." Protected by trunk lines under other numbers which carry the message through in case one line should be occupied, watched by the vigilant eyes of highly trained men, this telephone number awaits its signal by day or by night. This number should be called the moment that there is evidence that a kidnaping has taken place.

No doubt many persons will disagree with Mr. Cooper's next admonition, and, to a certain degree, we are inclined to join them. He said to forget for the time being the local police. Wait until later to call the rest of the family or neighbors, or go forth shouting the alarm. If it is a real alarm, you will be surprised to learn how quickly J. Edgar Hoover himself will be on the telephone, whether the call comes day or night, and just how magically G-Men will seem to pop up from nowhere to take charge of the case and begin their work not only to return the abducted person, but to catch the kidnaper.

Mr. Cooper goes on to give a lot of other advice about the conduct of families in which kidnapings have occurred. He warns against the handling of a ransom note, against molesting furniture or surroundings before the arrival of federal operatives.

There is no doubt about the direction of the G-Men superceding activities of all other officials in a kidnap search. But in some instances, where speed might serve to good stead when the moments are precious, we believe local officers could be of great service.

Disagreeing with Mr. Cooper in this respect, we believe local officials should be notified first, then the G-Men. In the meanwhile, the home town officers might hit a hot clue that would cool off before the government men arrived.

Take Care of Yourself

This is the time of year when a large percent of the population "takes down" with colds and other ailments, many of them induced by exposure and the rapidly changing moods of the weather. In other words, it is "pneumonia weather," changeable, uncertain, a hazard to persons who take chances with their health by failure to observe a few common sense rules.

According to reports issued by the Illinois Department of Public Health, pneumonia reached a considerably higher reported prevalence peak as the new year began than at any previous time since December, 1928. For the week ending January 4, a total of 1,056 cases were reported.

The peak of the epidemic wave is believed to have passed, but because prevalence is likely to continue at a relatively high level until April there are certain facts the public should know.

Pneumonia is an acute inflamation of the lungs caused by a definite germ. It is a disease in which the patient is extremely ill from the very onset; it runs a relatively short course, seldom lasting over seven to nine days. But it is a disease of such severity that for the population as a whole the death rate is highest of the acute infection diseases.

Many cases are preceded by an ordinary cold, which may have lasted for a few days to several weeks before the onset of pneumonia. While every cold is not followed by pneumonia, the fact that nearly every case of pneumonia is preceded by a cold means that colds should receive more attention than has been true heretofore. Colds are responsible for more "lay-offs" among workers than any other diseases.

Don't try to work off a cold, or to keep going, waiting for it to wear itself out. Any person who is suffering from a cold or temperature or a severe cough, should take sufficient time away from his work to make a complete recovery.

This is the best way to guard against an attack of pneumonia. Don't take chances when they aren't worth taking.

All in Confusion

L. N. Bowman had the following to say in the King City, (Mo.) News this week:

"The nearest we've ever come to realization of our hope for a soundproof, lightproof, bulletproof private office is the little den we've established down home, where we can come back tomorrow and find everything just where we left it yesterday and where there's not even a telephone to interrupt; but did you ever try to concentrate with a Boy Scout meeting going on in the basement; the radio running full-blast in the living room, a daughter and her girl friends running up and down stairs, a parrot shouting bloody murder from the kitchen and a Collie dog and Angora cat chasing each other intermittently from cellar to garret?"

The Courage of McKinley

January 29 passed, and we made no comment of the anniversary of a great American, a man who served in the White House and is one of our three martryed presidents. In fact, we didn't hear President McKinley's birthday mentioned by anyone. It is not a holiday that is widely observed. Yet it is not too late to look back on the anniversary, and point out some of the inspiring chapters in Mr. McKinley's life.

He was once a member of Congress. He was a distinguished member who was one of the greatest students of tariff who ever sat in that group. After the civil war, in which he served as a young man and during which he received a commission as Major signed by President Lincoln, Mr. McKinley returned to Ohio and became active in politics.

Once he was elected by only eight votes. On another occasion by only five votes. The latter contest went into a recount and he lost. It was this contest that really started him on his career to the governorship.

While governor, Mr. McKinley signed a note for a friend as surety. The amount was $15,000. The friend proved unscrupulous and used McKinley's name to obtain greater sums. The so-called friend went into liquidation and then it was revealed that Mr. McKinley as surety was obligated for $90,000.

To him and his invalid wife it was a great blow. It represented far more than he was worth. He discussed it with his friends and agreed that he would have to resign as governor and go back to the practice of law in hope of earning enough to pay off this obligation which was not his.

Friends came to his rescue. He turned over every dollar's worth of property to them and they made up the balance for which he gave them his personal note.

This misfortune did not break the spirit or courage of William McKinley. He went on and on, and ultimately was elected to the Presidency, only to be brought to an untimely end by the assassin's bullet.

The Last Wild Turkey

Pike county newspapers are carrying on an interesting discussion as to who killed the last wild turkey in that county. We imagine that the last wild turkey in Morgan county was killed considerably before the species disappeared from Pike, although that is a mere guess. It would be interesting to hear from some of the older residents of this community as to what they know from personal experience about the time wild turks were last seen near here.

Peter J Ellis of Newburg township, Pike county, remembers that he and his brother John killed two of the game birds some forty-odd years ago. Mr. Ellis thinks that it was in 1894. He says that so far as he has ever heard, these were the last wild turkeys killed in that county.

Wild turkeys, along with other kinds of game and fowl, roamed this community in pioneer days and for a number of years remained in diminishing quantities to provide sport and food for a hardy people.

Quail, rabbits and other small game that have defied the guns of modern day hunters, may soon follow the wild turkeys into oblivion if strict conservation measures are not invoked.

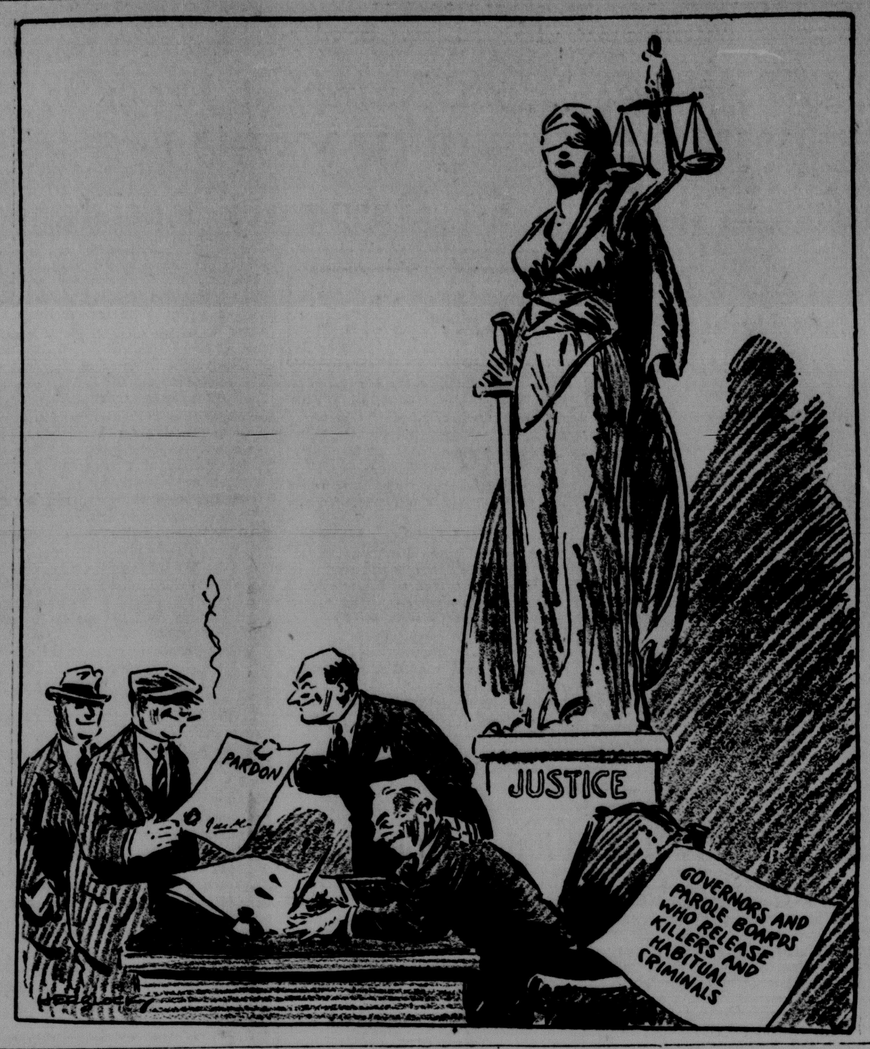

Will the residents of Morgan county some years hence talk about who killed the last quail, or the last rabbit?

We can answer that question for them by our interest in protection of wild life and strict observance of game laws.

Children's Diseases Are Avoidable if Parents Will Co-operate

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Practically all children used to have measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria, mumps, chickenpox, and whooping cough, and it was the attitude of most mothers that the youngsters might as well have them and get them over with. That conception of disease no longer prevails.

It is known now that a child need not suffer from these infectious diseases, and that it is possible to avoid some of them, particularly if parents co-operate with health departments and physicians in preventive measures.

The city of Manchester, N. H., has not had a single case of diphtheria for five years. It should be possible for every city in the United States to achieve a similar record.

During the first six months of his life, because of breast feeding and the immunization received at birth, a child usually has the resistance materials necessary to overcome many infections. Moreover, the nursing infant, because of his helplessness, is usually isolated from contact with many sources of infection.

After the sixth month, however, the infant stops nursing and begins to move about more. It is necessary, then, to give him the advantage of modern preventive methods which increase his resistance of certain diseases.

At the age of 9 months, children may be vaccinated against smallpox. The vaccination usually is made in the upper part of the left arm or on the outer side of the left leg, above the knee. It will prevent smallpox in the vast majority of cases.

By the twelfth month children should be immunized against diphtheria. The method now used involves injection of a substance called diphtheria toxoid. The doctor usually will inject this into the loose tissue of arm or leg, or occasionally into the back or the abdominal wall. Some physicians use two doses; others a one dose toxoid.

Usually the child begins to develop immunity immediately after the injection and within four months is protected against diphtheria for some time. Vaccination against diphtheria and smallpox is today an established procedure for all children.

When there are epidemics of scarlet fever in a community or in institutions where there are many children, such children should be vaccinated against this disease. For whooping cough and measles, the methods are not established and are used only when epidemics threaten.

If a child or an adult is to travel in foreign countries where the food and water are not so well sanitated as they are in the United States, he is wise to guard against typhoid fever by taking the necessary injections.

Lockjaw is so serious that physicians generally recommend the use of inoculation whenever a child has been cut, injured by fire-works or suffers any other type of injury in which tissues are broken and possibly contaminated with soil, clothing, or other materials which may contain the lockjaw germ.

We do not yet recognize any specific method of inoculation against the common cold. Certain vaccines are promoted for this purpose, but they still are considered highly experimental, and are not recommended by the majority of doctors.

With available methods of prevention, and with the specific control of infectious diseases that it is possible, the prevalence of diseases in the United States is a definite charge against the intelligence of its citizens.

America seems to have more than 350,000 cases of measles, 200,000 cases of smallpox, 180,000 cases of scarlet fever, 100,000 cases of mumps, and 200,000 cases of whooping cough every year. It should be possible to cut down these figures exactly as we have such diseases as typhoid fever.

Control of diphtheria is definitely in sight. With development of research and better understanding of these diseases, it is reasonable to predict that the future will see still more of the infectious diseases brought definitely under control.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal-Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington—Mr. Robert H. Jackson suddenly has become a source of acute pain and considerable alarm among the so-called leaders of the legal profession, whose conceptions of the Constitution and the supreme court pattern after those of the American Liberty League.

Jackson is the lawyer who recently was made head of the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice—a fact which doesn't assuage any fears. And the news is getting around that he also is an important but unobtrusive member of the inner circle of presidential advisers.

Worst and immediately to the point, Jackson has just warned his legal brethren that if they keep on cluttering up the path of national progress, they may lose their all-important monopoly on the supreme court through appointment of laymen to the court by "some radical" administration."

That was part of a speech at the annual dinner of the New York Bar Association, in which he took the hide off the American Bar Association and its dominating legal philosophy with perhaps more force and finesse than had ever before been applied to the job.

Launch Revolt

The attack was a symbolic phase of a widespread revolt against the "reactionary" A. B. A. The revolt heads up in the National Lawyers Guild, of which Jackson and many other New Deal lawyers are members.

Delegates representing more than 1,000 "liberal" lawyers, including senators, governors, and judges will meet in Washington this month to organize formally, attack the "bourbonism" of the A. B. A. and espouse the Brandeis conception of lawyers as public servitors rather than mere hired mercenaries.

Frank P. Walsh is national president of the N. L. G., and Henry T. Hunt, special legal adviser to the Secretary of the Interior, is national vice president and head of the Washington chapter.

Tried Andy Mellon

Much more will be heard of Jackson. He was an outstanding trial lawyer in Buffalo, N. Y., and a leader in upstate Democratic politics who is being promoted in certain influential places to succeed Herbert Lehman as governor of New York.

As general counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue, he devised the intercorporate dividend tax, and tried the big tax case against Andrew W. Mellon.

He was made a special assistant to the SEC to try the Electric Bond and Share case involving the holding company act, and was head of the D. J.'s taxation section under Attorney General Cummings before being assigned to anti-trust cases.

He has joined up with the celebrated legal brain trust team of Ben Cohen and Thomas G. Corcoran which has drafted a large share of New Deal legislation.

Servant or Nuisance?

"We lawyers have produced a paralyzing complexity of government that frustrates democratic control," Jackson declared. "The most subtle subverter of free government is a baffling comlexity.

"It seemed last fall that the American Bar Association identified itself pretty thoroughly with Maine and Vermont....Is our profession a public servant or a public nuisance?.... Some think society would do well to plow under the worst of us. Others think the worst of us do less harm to society than the best of us. Our sincerity is always under a cloud. There is a cruel realism about the underworld which calls any lawyer, even its own, a 'mouthpiece.'

"No other people have submitted so generally to lawyer leadership. We have held all the judicial and many of the legislative and executive offices."

Owe All to High Court

Lawyer prestige, Jackson pointed out, rests on judicial supremacy in government, and "only by our monopoly of the high court can be hold society to those technical legal patterns which only counselors-at-law can weave or unravel.

Lawyers' control of the court rested only on public sufferance and tradition, he said, and the Constitution left membership in the court open to members of other vocations. Other professions, Jackson said, did not accept methods of thinking set up by legal philosophy or the lawyer's unreasoning devotion to precedent. Situation had made "simple problems like child labor or minimum wages a confused muddle."

"The legal profession tries to adjudge the rights of the masses as it would a case of trespass or a suit on a note," Jackson said. "Edmund Burke declared you could not draw an indictment against a whole people, but modern courts are trying to draw injunctions against a whole people. Government by litigation has destroyed effectively enforcement of public policy."

There's reason for believing Roosevelt saw that speech before it was made.

THE WORLD IN A WEEK

A REVIEW

WITH THE AFTERMATH of flood, and climactic controversy over settlement of General Motors labor troubles running neck and neck to prominent spots in the week's news, President Roosevelt set off an unexpected bombshell in a message to Congress Friday which said, substantially, that men over 70 were unfit to serve on the Supreme Court.

His lengthy message, however, did contain a number of other things. Its emphasis, taken generally, was along two major divisions. The first,—drastic revision of the entire court system, was admirably and vitally correct. It was suggested in substance by President Taft. For years legislators and jurists have lamented the time-cluttering procedure of the judiciary.

But the thing that had Congress rocking on its toes, Washington reporters perspiring in the "important" press conference, and legislators sending out hurried statements was the proposal to virtually "pack" the Supreme Court with younger men more favorable to New Deal legislation.

Mr. Roosevelt said that for each federal judge past 70 who refused to retire, an additional judge would be appointed. If the six justices of the Supreme Court now over 70 stayed on the bench, six more would be appointed, raising the tribunal's membership from nine to 15.

The president developed the "age" proposition thoroughly, admitting the "delicacy" of the subject and saying,—"A lowered mental or physical vigor leads men to avoid examination of complicated or changed conditions. Little by little new facts become blurred through old glasses fitted, as it were, for the needs of another generation."

THE MERITS OF the president's proposal are scarcely in order, as such. It is not so much a question of whether he is right or wrong that is interesting, but the implications of the action,—what precipitated it and what effect will the suggestion have on those concerned.

Mr. Roosevelt claims that New Deal legislation can be passed without an amendment of the constitution. Justices who have defeated a majority of that legislation demonstrate by their attitude that it cannot. But on almost every side comes regret that the decision has come to "pack" the court. Revisions in lower courts will probably be accepted as progressive moves. They have been due for a long time.

Senator McNary said, "It has got to be studied with great care as it involves transfer to the president of greater power over the judiciary than has ever before existed."

The president himself betrayed a possible doubt on his success in carrying out a New Deal program when he said in the message,—"If these measures achieve their aim we may be relieved of the necessity of considering fundamental changes in the powers of the courts or the constitution of our government—changes which would involve consequences so far-reaching as to cause uncertainty as to the wisdom of such course."

THE PRESIDENT SHOULD have no fear of adopting that "latter course" if the people are solidly behind his program. A constitutional amendment is the natural way to change the decisions of the "Nine Old Men." But to "amend" the court itself with a detachment of New Dealers might destroy forever the prestige and protection of the foundation of American progress, the constitution.

The above "sentiments" are substantially those expressed by dozens of congressmen who issued statements on the message. The result will be decided by their vote,—a vote which will inevitably be prefaced by a bitter battle of words.

THE LAST MILE OF a long, hard road is being traversed by leaders on both sides of the expensive auto strike. As yet no settlement has been reached, but it is not optimistic to say that an agreement is near. President Roosevelt has conferred with Governor Murphy of Michigan by phone, John Lewis is conferring daily with heads of the auto company, and the sheriff of Flint is worriedly fingering an eviction order for the "sit-down" strikers in that city.

Right of the auto union to be sole bargainer is said now to be the only obstacle in the way of a settlement.

FLOODS ARE INCHING their scummy way down the streets of inundated Ohio valley towns, Cairo is shouting "Victory!" as the 60-foot seawall and bulkhead turn back the waters, and the billion-dollar levee system of the Mississippi appears sound. The flood is "over," in a manner of speaking.

But the long process of rehabilitation is beginning that involves thousands of men and millions of dollars. There is slime and rubbish to be cleared, homes to be inspected and repaired, and hungry mouths to be fed until more normal processes of life are possible.

Louisville suffered a tragic aftermath Friday when natural gas exploded, setting fire to two buildings and taking a large toll of dead and injured. The gas accumulation was the result of broken mains during the height of the flood.

Pheasant Program To Be Explained at Meeting on Tuesday

Sportsmen Plan to Form County Organization; Must File by February 22

A complete explanation of the method the State Department of Conservation will follow in giving pheasants to sportsmen's clubs throughout the state will be given at a meeting of the Jacksville chapter of the organization to be held at the American Legion home Tuesday night. Officers of other chapters in this county have been invited to attend in order to form the county organization which must be set up before any of the chapters will be granted chick pheasants.

The meeting will be in the form of an oyster supper, after which J. C. McConaha, club organizer, and Louis Martin, state game farm manager, will explain the program to be followed. C. F. Thompson, state director of conservation, notified Ernest May, president of the Jacksonville organization, that he has requested officers of several other county organizations in this district to attend the meeting.

Director Thompson, in a letter to all sportsmen's club chapters, has notified them that the state department will not deal with township organizations or with individuals, but that all baby pheasants to be given out by the state department will be given only to county organizations, and that these organizations must meet certain conditions before they will be granted chicks.

Mr. McConaha also will bring with him some new reels of motion pictures showing wildlife in the state.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 6:30 with the oyster supper, and will be followed by the explanation of the pheasant program, and talks by Mr. McConaha and Mr. Martin.

Hundred Placed in Jobs Here During Month of January

National Re-employment Office Provides Many Positions in City

The National Re-employment Service in this district placed 224 persons in private jobs during January, the local office announced Saturday. Of this number, at least a hundred placements were made in the city of Jacksonville.

The month featured an increased demand for domestic servants, housekeepers, cooks, etc. At least 25 of the placements in the city were in domestic service. Many employes were placed with utility companies for work of clearing up the recent storm damage.

The placements covered a wide range of occupations and included clerks, salesmen, stenographers, bookkeepers, utility workers, cooks, secretaries, etc. The NRS is also handling placements for the clothing workers here.

It is hoped that those who are interested in obtaining employment in the city's clothing factories will register at the re-employment office in the Farrell bank building. By so doing, they will be in line for any work which is available there and perhaps for permanent jobs.

New Firestone Battery Starts Motors Twice As Fast

Exhaustive tests prove the new Firestone Extra Power Battery for 1937 with Allrubber Separators will start motors twice as fast under the most difficult conditions. After the battery has been chilled to zero for 24 hours, it is placed on a high rate discharger, shown above, and put through the "cold test" at a discharge rate of 300 amperes—average starter drain in extreme cold weather. An attendant records the results from the scientific instruments every 30 seconds while the battery continues to "spin the motor." Firestone engineers have proved by this test that the new Firestone Extra Power Battery will start your motor twice as fast in the most severe winter weather.

Many Activities at Recreation Centers

Some Aid in Collection of Food and Clothing for Relief; Classes Held

The Morgan County Recreation Project has been active in assisting the agencies, appointed in towns in which recreation centers are located, especially at Waverly and at Franklin, to collect food and clothing for the flood sufferers.

Under the supervision of Fire Chief Frank Sullivan, the athletic field at Illinois College has been flooded several times during the past few days and an ideal skating rink prepared.

The rink is available to the public and many persons have made use of the opportunity to enjoy skating there the past week.

Supervised classes at Waverly, Franklin, Concord and the Dunbar Recreation Center are maintaining good attendance. At present classes in Wood Carving hold interest. Many attractive Valentines are being made in the pre-school age classes.

At Waverly, a class under the direction of Robert Davis is constructing willow furniture, this is to be used in equipping the center. Frank Lair is assisting the teaching of this group. The Waverly Recreation Committee with Rev. D. K. Sailor, Chairman, has been very cooperative with the Center.

At Franklin, the supervised tap dancing classes have an enrollment of forty-eight students. This group has shown real progress in the several weeks the classes have been organized.

Handicraft classes under the direction of Oliver Hocking and Wellington Woods have constructed many useful articles for the home. Cooperation of the Franklin High School Board and Village Board have added much to the success of the community program in Franklin.

A checker tournament was recently held under the auspices of the Concord Recreation group with twenty-three players participating. The contest attracted much interest and the final winners were 1st James Simpson, 2nd Wm. Gaines and 3rd Virgil Strickler.

The winners will represent Concord in the Morgan County Checker Tournament to be held in Jacksonville in the near future. Handicraft classes have been making doll furniture and this has been put to practical use by the youngsters.

The Dunbar Recreation Centers in Jacksonville has become a definite part in the social and community life among the colored citizens of the city. Regular classes in handicraft are carried on during the afternoon and the evening given over to social recreation and active games.

Recently, Louis Norvell and his orchestra appeared and furnished music for an hour's dancing, which was very much appreciated by the group present.

A Kazoo Band is being organized at Dunbar by Mrs. Pearl Moore, music director.

A choice selection of current magazines are on hand at both the Franklin and Dunbar centers for the use of visitors.

At present, plans are underway for a county bird house building contest.

A bulletin service is maintained at the Y. M. C. A. Building under the supervision of Ray Spillman, Assist. Supt., and Handicraft Instructor, to furnish information to the several centers in the county.

Business school in Louisville, Kentucky. Radio reports had been that the school was surrounded with several feet of water and Mrs. Wayham and her mother, Mrs. Susan Flatt, had been quite anxious at not receiving any assurance from Mr. Flatt. However, he wired them that he was O. K. There were no details.

L. T. Seely, vice president of the Greene County Fair association and Dr. Edward Giller, director of the association, are in Springfield attending the Illinois Agriculture Fair association meeting, and also the Colt Breeders association meeting being held in the St. Nicholas hotel.

The Merry Mix Up club met all day Thursday with Mrs. Lloyd Smith, east of the city, with sixteen of the twenty members present. There were five guests, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. Joseph Pruitt, Mrs. Henry Pruitt, Mrs. Roy Anderson and Miss Vincent Shackelford.

During the business meeting held in the afternoon it was voted to donate two dollars to the flood sufferers. The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Herman Keller.

Mrs. L. L. Seely entertained her bridge club of two tables at her home Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Dean Corsa is confined to her bed with influenza.

Doris Jean Hatcher, five years old is quite ill with influenza. Mrs. C. F Dean residing on Ross street is quite ill.

Rev. and Mrs. C. W. Kerst went to Jerseyville Monday where they attended a pot luck dinner and conference of the pastors and wives of the Greene-Jersey Baptist association in the home of Rev. and Mrs. Steinkraus. A number of pastors and friends were present and the day was very pleasantly and profitably spent.

The Sandy Creek Baptist Associational Training Union will hold a rally in the White Hall Tabernacle Baptist church next Sunday. The afternoon session will begin at two o'clock and the evening session at 6:30 o'clock. Several unions in the association are expected to take part on the program.

The Patterson Training Union gave a missionary playlet in the Patterson church last Sunday evening, entitled "Go Ye Into All the World," at the close of which the pastor, Rev F L. Crouch gave a plea for missions and a collection of $10.98 was raised for foreign missions.

Rev. F. L. Crouch will preach in the Patterson Baptist church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and Sunday school will be held at 10:00 o'clock. Announcement will be made at the morning service if there will be preaching service at night. The pastor has been invited to talk at the Training Union rally in the Tabernacle church in White Hall that evening.

Rev. Homer Evans will preach in the Tabernacle church Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock following the Sunday school session at 10 o'clock.

A.A.U.W. Will Have Magazine Editor on Program for Meet

Barclay Acheson, of Reader's Digest, to Talk Feb. 9 at Meeting

An unusual attraction is the speaker for the February meeting of the Jacksonville Branch of the American Association of University Women. He is Barclay Acheson, associate editor of the Reader's Digest.

Originally a Canadian, Mr. Acheson was educated in this country and has degrees from several American universities. For a number of years he served as a member of the faculty of the American University at Beirut, Syria.

Again at one time he was associate general secretary of the New Era Movement of the Presbyterian church in charge of field organization and he likewise filled a similar position with the China Famine Fund. For his services to the people of Greece the government of that nation decorated him commander of the Order of the Redeemer.

Mr. Acheson will be known to many through his successful handling of Near East Relief operations. He has traveled widely in Russia, Greece, the Balkans, and the countries of northern Africa and Asia Minor; in these countries he is well acquainted with many of the outstanding figures in government and industry.

Since the start of the Reader's Digest over fifteen years ago, Mr. Acheson has been closely associated with its development, and has had a rich experience in many fields of activities. He has much to say of interest to those concerned with permanent values in the world of thought.

His subject for the Jacksonville Branch will be "What Makes the Clock Tick,"; it pertains to the agencies of human progress, and contains material both humorous and historical.

The meeting of the Branch will be held Tuesday, February 9th, at 3:30 p. m. in the David Smith House, with Mrs. E. B. Miller in charge of hostesses for the afternoon, who are Miss Mary Anderson, Mrs. C. C. Barlow, Mrs. Ross Bradley, Mrs. W. F. Coolidge, Mrs. P. R. Engberg, Mrs. F. E. Oxtoby, Mrs. R. O. Stoops, Miss Rose Ranson, Miss Zoe Tyrrell, Miss Marian Landon, and Mrs. G. O. Webster.

LOCAL YOUTH WRITES OF CONDITIONS NEAR FLOODED TERRITORY

Interesting views of the flood situation as seen through the eyes of a National Guardsman are expressed in a letter received here Friday. The letter is written by a Jacksonville boy who is stationed at Harrisburg with the 130th Infantry, Illinois National Guard.

The youth tells of serving on a motor boat detail for three nights. The job was to ferry stranded people across the flooded areas. The square and part of the business district, according to the letter, is covered by water. The writer expressed the opinion that the worst will come when the water starts to recede and the long period of moving back into wet, muddy homes commences. He states that there are probably many who were caught in their homes with no way of reaching patrol boats, with the result that they "just up and got drowned."

The guardsman walk their posts on guard duty with loaded rifles and fixed bayonets, and "we have orders to shoot looters if they won't stop when ordered." The boy goes on to say that they have not had any trouble in this fashion yet, however.

He is making four dollars a day on the job and does not know how long he will be stationed there. He estimates that the guardsmen will be on duty for two weeks to a month more, perhaps longer.

Blueboys Trounce Southern Teachers; J. H. S., Routt Defeated

Lasiter and Scheffler Pace Hilltop Attack to Win 39-36, Boosting Conference Chances

Illinois College's rollicking Blueboys boosted their standing in the Little Nineteen last night when they walked up a 39 to 36 decision over Southern Teacher's College of Carbondale at the I. S. D. gym.

The conference victory was occasioned largely on the part of Louis "Too-tall" Lassiter, who held his 6 foot, 10 inch frame around the court under the baskets for four field goals and 13 points, and Herb Scheffler, the Springfield flash, who caged 7 baskets for a grand total of 15 points.

It was a combat that had the fans screaming and on the edge of the benchers from the time the teams trotted out until the final blast of the timer's cannon. Illinois staged a sensational comeback drive to earn the victory.

Both teams started out with a bang, Illinois scoring the first basket on a beautiful shot by Scheffler. Edwards then was fouled on a tip in shot which was followed by two free throws and a basket by Southern, Scheffler and Virgil Fletcher worked together for four beautiful left-handed shots by Scheffler. The game see-sawed for the rest of the first half with Southern finally getting a 23 to 18 lead as the half ended.

The game again started out with both teams fighting hard to win. Shortly after the second half started Scott went in the place of Lasiter and played a nice game. Lasiter soon rejoined him and the rest seemed to help him good.

It looked like Southern's ball game after awhile however for shots by Lucas, Fulton and Broadway gave them a 10 point lead with nine minutes to play. It was at this time the Blueboys got their break and took advantage of it.

Broadway, Southern's big center, who had done a great job of holding Lasiter beside playing a fine offensive game, went out of the game on fouls. From then on I. C. controlled the ball practically for the rest of the game.

A short shot by V. Fletcher another left handed shot by Scheffler 2 free throws and a basket by Lasiter brought them within one point of tying the score with only three minutes to play. Lasiter was then fouled and made his fifth straight free throw to tie the score.

The crowd then went wild but hope faded somewhat when Scheffler, who had played a magnificant game and who did some left-handed shooting that was thrilling to watch, went out of the game on fouls. Scott replaced him and I. C. went on to win the game 39-36.

Fulton and Lucas kept Southern in the game with their fast breaking shots that came close every time, while Scheffler and Lasiter did most of I. C.'s scoring. However, all the Blueboys played a great game and it was the fine passing and teamwork of the entire team that finally allowed Illinois College to come out victorious.

This game knocks Southern out of any title hopes and keeps I. C. in the running.

Before the start of the game there was a brief ceremony in which William McAndrews, director of athletics and coach of basketball at Southern Teachers, was introduced with complimentary remarks by LaRue VanMeter, director of athletics at Illinois.

Van Meter stated that Mr. McAndrews worked continuously for four days and nights in the flood area of southern Illinois, after which he became so exhausted that he was removed to a hospital. The Southern athletic director had just been released from the hospital in time to make the Jacksonville trip.

Southern Teachers' campus at present is a haven for flood refugees, some 500 persons being sheltered in the school's gymnasium.

McAndrews, a popular civic worker in his part of the state, was given a hearty hand by the local audience.

Braddock-Louis Bout Is Uncertain

Principals Dispute Over Place of Battle

New York, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The proposed James J. Braddock-Joe Louis heavyweight championship fight in Chicago had everyone hanging on the ropes today with the principals about as close together as Delhi, India, and Winfield, Kansas.

There will be no signing of contracts for the fight in Chicago Monday as first announced. And there may never be any Chicago fight at all unless Soldier Field, Chicago's gigantic lake front stadium, is made available for the fight at a reasonable rental.

Joe Gould, manager of the champion, said he would not consider Comiskey park, home of the Chicago White Sox, as the site.

"It'll be Soldier Field or no fight in Chicago," growled Gould defiantly. Comiskey park isn't large enough."

Promotor Jacobs, who holds Louis' contract to fight when and where Mr. Jacobs thinks best, was a bit worn and frayed over all the bickering.

"As long as Gould wants Soldier Field, I suppose it'll have to be Soldier Field, or else," said Jacobs. "You can hardly blame Gould. He has to get as much out of the fight as he can for his fighter. Anyway, it's Chicago's fight and Chicago should be able and willing to turn Soldier Field over at a reasonable rental."

Asked what he thought would be a fair rental, Jacobs said five per cent of the net should be enough. The usual rate, it is understood, is 10 to 15 per cent.

Jacobs said he would wait for Matchmaker Joe Foley of Chicago to make the next move. Foley advised that he was confident he could line up the stadium by Monday or Tuesday. Soldier Field has a seating capacity of 130,000 as against 75,000 at Comiskey park.

Wildcats Sweep Crimsons Off Feet With Fourth Quarter Finish to Win by 21 to 17

Closing with a rally, Winchester high's Wildcats swept aside Jacksonville high's Crimsons in their rise to power in central Illinois' prep circles with a 21 to 17 victory on the David Prince court Saturday night. The Crimson freshman and sophomore team lost to the Beardstown reserves 29 to 11 in a curtain raiser.

Quinn, Winchester's high scoring forward, turned the game in favor of the Wildcats in the last half minute of play when he dropped in a field goal and was awarded a free throw when he was fouled during the shot, and then sank another bucket to clinch the issue in the last ten seconds.

The five points Quinn scored in the last half minute of play were the only two points the blond little forward was able to get all through the game. The Crimsons had a six point lead to start the final half, but dribbled it away when the Wildcats took advantage of tactical errors.

The Crimsons played a lot of flat-footed basketball against a smart team. Winchester snapped out to an 8 to 3 lead in the first period before the Crimsons settled down, and then J. H. S. worked up to a 12 to 10 lead at the end of the first half.

Winchester failed to score during the third period, and then clamped down on the J.H.S. lads who went into a tailspin before the driving Winchester finish. Baptist played only a short while, and other Crimson regulars left the game for long periods on the bench.

White Hall Captures Greene County Title From Roodhouse

Carrollton—White Hall high's lanky Maroons, scoring in bursts of from six to ten points at a clip, captured the Greene county championship for the third time in the history of the 11 year old gathering of the county quintets, defeating the Roodhouse Railroaders, defending title holders, 48 to 27 after Hillview pulled a last minute rally to snatch third place from Greenfield 26 to 24.

Characterized by Abel Hanson, tournament manager, as probably the best team to ever win the county championship, the Maroons turned on a burst of scoring in the second period which brought them from behind at the end of the first period to an 11 point lead at the end of the half, a lead which the champions protected and enlarged upon as the game progressed.

Sending startling whirlwind attacks at the Railroaders from the center jumps, the Maroons broke a fast attack around the hoop with Dean Fair and Wendell leading the scoring. Fair poured in 19 points, and Wendell dumped in 16. Duty led the Railroader attack with 12 points, and Doyel, whose shooting during the first quarter put the defending champions in front, tossed in nine points during the fray.

Hard fought throughout, White Hall kept its varsity players in the game until there was only a little over two minutes to go. Roodhouse threatened to the very end, and turned in a ten point rally during the final quarter in a futile effort to overcome the big White Hall lead.

Greenfield appeared to have third place within its grasp but accuracy from the foul line turned the tide in favor of Hillview. Greenfield outscored Hillview 10 to 6 in field goals, but Hillview connected 14 times from the free throw line to overcome the margin. Hillview tossed in 13 points, as many as they had made through the first three periods, to nose out Greenfield in the last minute and a half of play. Black and Price, with two field goals each, led the fourth quarterly rally that pulled Hillview out in front.

FAN BREEZES

By Ernest Savage

PHEASANTS may be flitting their way about Morgan county in the near future if the Sportsman's club of this county can meet the requirements set up by the State Department of Conservation.....Just what these requirements will be isn't known as yet, but the local sportsman's club members will find out when they convene here Tuesday night.....

FEB. 22 is the deadline set by the state department for county chapters to file their application for participation in this program.....The idea is that the state department can concentrate on hatching birds and bringing them through the first three weeks, if they can find an outlet suitable to them at the end of that time.....County clubs will provide that outlet and will raise the birds until the time they are ready to take to the fields.....

ROODHOUSE got a lot of impetus for their semi-final game against Hillview when former Coach Foster Keagle, flooded out of his Harrisburg gymnasium, dropped in at Carrollton's gymnasium Friday night..... Mrs. Kleagle had to leave Harrisburg about two weeks ago and has been visiting friends at Roodhouse..... Keagle expects to get back on the job this week.....

PAIRINGS for the tournaments in this part of the state reveal a lot of interesting basketball.....Jacksonville's regional tournament should be as still as any sectional.....Pittsfield has the same situation, although the Indians, if they keep going at their present pace, should win it without much trouble.....Winchester's district has a lot of good teams enrolled.....

GRADE SCHOOL cagers began hunting up gymnasiums in which to practice their shots and team play immediately after the announcement that the Journal and Courier is going to hold a meet to pick out the best grade school team in the county.

GAMES are being arranged a little more rapidly than usual in order to give the youngsters more game experience.....Several of the teams have been playing rather extensive schedules.....Waverly is particularly pleased with the decision not to inflict an age limit on players..... They have two boys on their team who are just about 16 years of age .....Waverly has won seven and lost three games thus far this year.....

WESLEYAN can help Illinois College a lot in its quest for a championship by knocking off Bradley when these two teams clash next Tuesday .....Bradley is reported to have one of the best teams it has had in the last few years.....The Blueboys have games yet with Millikin here next Saturday, and Wesleyan a week from Saturday.....

New York, Feb. 6.—(AP)—A record crowd of more than 800, among them most of the famous leaders of the game, will attend the 14th annual New York Baseball Writers' banquet tomorrow night.

Every major league club except the Chicago White Sox have made reservations for the big dinner and show at which the writers make merry at the expense of players and club-owners with burlesque acts and satire.

Tony Lazzeri, New York Yankees' second baseman, and Travis Jackson, newly-appointed manager of the New York Giants' International League farm at Jersey City, will be honored with special awards, Lazzeri as the "player of the year."

Shadows Take Lead in Opening Period and Rockets Battle in Vain; Visitors Win 26 to 15

Murrayville High school's Shadows outfired the Routt Rockets 26 to 15 last night at Liberty Hall, adding to their string of victories.

The Murrayville team demonstrated the power of its attack early in the fray, and was leading 20-11 at halftime. Although Routt clicked occasionally, its crew could not come through with the necessary punch to tie up the score.

Ken Brown and Baker each contributed 8 points to the melee, with Gregg Gaitens pacing the Routt attack.

In the curtain raiser Murrayville defeated Routt 30-29 in a nip and tuck battle.

Corrigan Wins Two Races for I.C. In Indiana Tank Meet

Blueboy Star Captures Two Feature Events; Relay Teams Finish Close

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 6.—University of Indiana tankers this afternoon splashed their way to a 58-26 victory over the Illinois College swimming team of Jacksonville, Ill.

One of the features of the meet was the brilliant performance of Corrigan, Illinois College star, who captured firsts in the 100 and 220 yard free stroke. Corrigan, a former Northwestern University athlete, was slightly indisposed but was able to finish in front of his Hoosier rivals.

Korvec of Illinois was second in the 200 yard breast stroke and Patterson finished second in the 150 back stroke. Stucka and Freeman contributed Illinois other points.

The Blueboy relay team made the Hoosiers tread water too fast for safety, the finish being close.

Friegal and LaPlante were the Indiana stars, scoring 20 points between them.

Coach Ray Nusspickel of Illinois did a good deal of baseball talking during his stay here, and it is probable that games will be arranged for spring between the two schools.

Patty Berg Wins Biltmore Tourney

Takes Golf Meet for Second Successive Year

Coral Gables, Fla., Feb. .—(AP)—Freckled Patty Berg of Minneapolis today won the Biltmore Women's Golf Tournament for the second successive year by vanquishing Jean Bauer of Providence, R. I., ten and nine.

Miss Berg had a medal score of 121—one under women's par—for the 27 holes it required to settle the scheduled 36-hole match.

The Minneapolis redhead put together a 40 and a 41 for a none-under-par 81 in the morning and went to lunch seven up. She turned the outgoing nine in a perfect forty in the afternoon.

Miss Bauer was noticeable off form. She played steady golf for the first nine holes, having a medal score of 42, but collapsed on the back stretch to run up a 50. She turned in a fair 43 for the final nine.

Patty was at the top of her game. She dubbed only three shots all day and more than made up for them with five birdies. She three-putted on only one green.

Illinois Upset By Notre Dame 41-33

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 6.—(AP)—Flashy Johnny Moir dropped in eight field goals and three free throws tonight to lead his Notre team mates to an upset 41 to 33 triumph over Illinois, Big Ten conference leader.

Illinois shot into an early lead on baskets by Boudreau and Combes, but the Irish pulled up even and went out in front after twelve minutes of play.

Starting the second half, the Irish ran their lead to 32 to 16. Then Riegel, Illinois captain and center, slipped four straight pivot shots through the net. Combes hit twice on passes from Vopicka, but with the score standing at 37 to 32, Nowak and Wukovits both scored to give the Irish victory.

Illinois was the second conference victim of Notre Dame within a week. Purdue bowed to the Irish Monday night.

Kentucky Derby to Go on As Scheduled

Flood Has Done Slight Damage to Track

Chicago, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The worst flood in the history of Louisville will be no barrier to the 63rd running of the Kentucky Derby, America's No. 1 horse race.

Colonel Matt Winn, cheered by a telegram from Neville Miller, mayor of Louisville, that the old Kentucky hospitality and spirit would be extended to derby visitors as of yore, left tonight for Louisville to make preparations for the race to be decided at Churchill Downs on May 8. Col. Winn has been the man behind the race for the last 36 years. He saw the first derby back in 1875 as a youngster from the back end of his father's delivery wagon.

"Churchill Downs was damaged only slightly by the flood," Col. Winn said. "The best answer to any stories concerning the condition of the track and the plant is that already six stables are at the Downs, with horses galloping every morning. I have assurances from both Tom Young, track superintendent, and Col. O'Sullivan, the resident manager, that everything is in good condition."

The company distributed a payroll of $25,000 yesterday, for the period ended by the strike of 850 employees Jan. 23.

Hamilton set out 24 assignments of error. Twenty-two were of a routine nature, and two alleged remarks by jurors that would indicate he was given an unfair trial.

Slain with Grissom was Hamilton's secret bride, Mrs. Wilma Woods Hamilton.

Rescue Crew From Burning Schooner; Report Bad Storm

Coast Guard Cutters Rush to Aid of Two Ships Having Broken Rudders

Norfolk, Va.—(AP)—The crew of a burning schooner, the William A. Morse, was taken aboard the S.S. Tela in heavy seas off Charleston, S. C., early today as coast guard cutters hurried to the aid of two other ships with broken rudders.

Coast guard division headquarters here said the Tela reported at 5 a. m., that the fire was still raging aboard the schooner, whose home port is listed as St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, and that it would be a "total loss."

Two freighters, the El Occidente and the S.S. Riegel, were drifting with broken rudders in heavy seas running before a northeaster along this section of the Atlantic coast.

The Riegel reported it was "listing heavily" 300 miles off Wilmington, N C., and issued "a general call for ships to stand by," coast guard officers said. The El Occidente was reported to be 100 miles off Cape Henry.

The cause of the blaze in the schooner Morse was not known here.

The Modoc, a cutter, was said to be proceeding "at full speed" out of Wilmington, N. C., to the Riegel, but was not expected to arrive alongside before sometime tonight. The Riegel's list was ascribed by the coast guard to shifting of cargo.

Another cutter, the Sebago, today encountered rough seas as it fought its way toward the El Occidente. The freighter was drifting south approximately 100 miles off the Virginia Capes, and the Sebago was expected to reach it about noon today.

Rehabilitation in Areas Stricken by Disaster Is Begun

Million Homeless; 400,000 Buildings Damaged; Cost Runs Many Millions

(By The Associated Press)

The gigantic task of rehabilitation forged ahead with quickening pace today through the flood-ravaged Ohio river valley.

Federal and state officials counted the cost in fabulous millions.

All down the 1,000-mile flood trail, from Pittsburgh, to Cairo, Ill., "clean-up" legions of WPA workers pushed the mud and muck-fouled debris back to the river.

And slowly, not unlike a crash victim emerging from shock, a vast army of nearly a million refugees began to realize the stunning individual effects of the disaster as they found what the river had done to their homes.

Mops, brooms and hoses were brought into action in the nation's great "spring cleaning"—A herculean labor which officials said would take three to six months, at an estimated cost of $250 per home. Approximately 400,000 homes and buildings were damaged in the 12-day flood emergency period.

A survey of the stricken areas disclosed that officials still have no idea what the ultimate cost will be.

The town of Portsmouth, O., alone, with a population of 42,560, started raising a $200,000 bond issue for flood rehabilitation against an estimated damage toll of between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000.

Cities in the West Virginia flood area reported they were depending on funds from the Red Cross, the Works Progress Administration and the state legislature to return refugees and rehabilitate homes, buildings and schools. The loss for the state was placed unofficially at $6,000,000.

Reconstruction plans in Virginia were in the formative stage. Richard F. Allen, Red Cross eastern area manager, estimated $2,000,000 would be required to rehabilitate 117,000 damaged homes. Wayne Coy, WPA administrator, said $1,000,000 was available.

WPA officials in Nashville, Tenn., estimated the damage to water plants, mains and sewage systems in the Cumberland river valley at approximately $500,000 Building damage at Clarksville, Tenn., (population 9,242) amounted to $150,000.

The Constitution of the United States went into effect on the first Wednesday in March, 1789.

Mississippi Rise Retards Recession Of Record Crests

Real Danger Over, Is Belief Now; Watching, Work Continues

Memphis, Tenn. — (AP) — Increased flow from the Mississippi above Cairo, Ill., retarded recession of record crests today and kept alive a waning threat to the valley's flood defenses.

The peak of the burden shoved into the Mississippi from the river-ravaged Ohio valley was miles below Cairo today but the water's retreat was so slow army engineers said levees as far south as Helena, Ark., would be vulnerable for many days.

Confidence persisted that the crisis now rasping dike tops ultimately would pass into the Gulf of Mexico without further major damage but the flood fighters admitted a severe storm any time in the next few days could precipitate a grave crisis.

A rising wind gave emphasis to this fear today by lashing choppy waves against levees in several exposed places in the Cairo-Memphis sector but splash boards sheated the dikes at the chief danger points and no material damage was done.

A leak in the levee protecting New Madrid, Mo., was checked after 400 workers toiled through the night to keep the water out of the town.

Meanwhile additional fatalities pushed to 400 the deaths charged to the flood while swift recession of the Ohio cut into the total of 1,000,000 refugees by sending thousands back to sodden homes.

Louisville's joy at reclaiming more and more territory from the retreating Ohio was shaken by explosions and fire which wrecked two buildings. Firemen fighting through smoking debris recovered one body and feared four more had died. Fourteen were hurt in the blasts blamed on a flood-induced gas leak.

Below Cairo, the gauges of the engineers recorded a drop of .25 of a foot in 24 hours at Hickman, Ky., of .05 at New Madrid and rises of .17 at Memphis and .43 at Helena Ark.

Lieut. Col. Eugene Reybold, chief of the U. S. Engineers here, reported the crest was between New Madrid and Memphis and expected to reach this city tomorrow or Monday.

Speed Search for Murderer of Boy

Follow Faint Clues in Effort to Make Capture

Lombard, Ill.—(AP)—A "swarthy, unkempt" man was sought today as police sifted meager clues which might lead to the slayer of five year old Roger Loomis.

Authorities, aided by aroused citizens, hunted for a bearded man who enticed the youth into his automobile Thursday, mistreated him and then left his strangled body upon a snow-covered roadside early yesterday.

From information supplied by the victim's playmates and Mrs. Augie Reese, the police gained a sketchy impression of the man's appearance and the automobile he drove.

Mrs. Reese said she saw the man drive past the Loomis home and later stop and call to three small boys who ran away. Descriptions of the person correspond with those offered by two Lombard boys who had been molested recently by a degenerate.

A man's white muffler which had been used in the garrotting and an empty whisky bottle found near the body were the only other clues.

Garages and vacant buildings on the outskirts of Lombard were inspected by police who sought to determine where the boy had been held captive during the night.

The disarrangement of young Loomis' clothing gave evidence he had been abused. Coroner Paul Isherwood announced after a post mortem examination death was due to strangulation.

Making Survey of Flooded Districts

Illinois Committee Now in Cairo Disaster Zones

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—To get their own information on Ohio river flood damage, a legislative committee went into southern Illinois today for a week-end survey before the regular session has opportunity to act on requests that $3,000,000 be appropriated for rehabilitation.

Two days after Governor Horner left the high water area on his second inspection trip, the joint House and Senate committee assembled at Elcorado to confer with Col. Robert W. Davis at flood headquarters and make a boat trip to some of the inundated cities.

The legislature ordered its investigation after the governor announced that relief needs are being met and that it is too early to determine how much the state must spend for rehabilitation of flooded cities and farms.

Members of the joint committee of six, appointed by Lieutenant Governor Stelle and Speaker Lewis, come from central and southern Illinois, some distance from the high water area. Stelle and Lewis were scheduled to join them on the survey.

Local Speakers at Meeting of Waverly Club Held Friday

Mrs. Herbert Capps, Mrs. Marshall Miller Aid in Flag Service

Addresses were made upon American Citizenship and Legislation by Mrs. Herbert J. Capps and Mrs. J. Marshall Miller, district chairmen in the federated clubs, at the meeting of the Waverly Woman's club held Friday afternoon in Congregational church in that city, before a large audience.

This was the Flag Dedication program of the club, and included many interesting numbers, followed by a patriotic tea served in the church parlors. Guests included several members of the district board, Mrs. Roy Davenport of Alexander, Mrs. Miller Weir, and Mrs. Fanita W. Brockhouse of Jacksonville.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. E. H. Sheppard, who later dedicated the Flag in a beautiful ceremony. The story of the Flag was presented by Mrs. Albert Burns in an interesting review of its history.

Mrs. Capps fittingly referred to the Flag as the emblem of American citizenship and in speaking on the subject emphasized the thought that the responsibility of good citizenship should be realized by everyone. "Each citizen," Mrs. Capps said, "should study legislation, the history of taxation, and the Constitution, which will endure just as long as the nation supports it."

She reminded the audience that the Constitution is often spoken of as fixed and liberty is accepted as common property. This she pointed out might be changed by indifference to all the benefits derived today by the people. The nation as it is today has been bought by the suffering of fellow men. All should be cherished and improved and a national defense maintained, said Mrs. Capps. She also called attention to the supreme court measure which has been brought before congress and asked each one to study the issue through the papers and press commentators.

Mrs. J. Marshall Miller recalled the bills advocated by the Federation of clubs. The Copeland bill, appropriations for defense, and the bill to establish a state board of education. Mrs. Miller clearly explained the main facts of these legislative measures and urged the club members to study them. Both talks were interesting presentations of department work.

The complete program was carried out as follows:

Song, "America the Beautiful," No. 275 (one verse, audience standing).
Flag Dedication—Mrs. E. H. Sheppard.
Allegiance to Flag—Mrs. Jennie R. Capps.
Story of Flag—Mrs. Albert Burns.
Song, "Star Spangled Banner," No. 281 (one verse, audience standing).
Dedication Prayer—Mrs. H. E. Funk.
Taps—Miss D. D. Harney. Color bearer, Miss Florence Mader; bugler, Miss D. D. Harney; accompanist, Mrs. Glen Huson.
Greetings, "America For Me" (Van Dyke)—By Mrs. Davenport.
Patriotic Tea, served in church parlors—Social and reception committee-hostesses, Mrs. O. C. Alderson, chairman.

"Babe" Celebrates His 43rd Birthday

"King of Swat" Invites in Reporters, Friends

New York—(AP)—It was time to quit for the day. The work of writing was done and there was nothing to do but go home, when the telephone rang.

"This is Babe Ruth," said a voice on the other end of the wire. "I'll be 43 years old tomorrow, so why don't you come over and join me in a little celebration?"

The Babe himself, plump and smiling, came to the door with a "h'y'e there, how's tricks?" when the reporters reached his Riverside Drive apartment.

"Feeling fine and my golf game's getting better every day," said the Bambino, tightening the cord of his dressing gown. "I weigh 240, which is about five pounds heavier than when I used to slug that apple."

"Babe," he was asked, "no fooling, now, how much do you really miss baseball, the applause of the crowd, and the attention you used to get as the great hero of the diamond?"

"Boys . . ." said the Babe, his eyes on one of the hundred pictures of former triumphs that decorated the wall, "boys, if it wasn't for golfing I think I'd die. God bless the man who invented golf."

The great man, deep in reverie the night before his forty-third birthday, did his best acting. He was jovial but it didn't take a student of human nature or a mind reader to know that deep down inside he was a big, lonely man waiting for the day when he could break loose from memories for the glories of today.

"Babe, why don't you take a job managing a minor league club, get some experience in managing and then go in the market for a major league pilot's job?" he was asked.

"Oh, no," said the forgotten big man of the diamond. "No minors for me. It's a major league job or nothing. And so far it's been nothing. I don't know. Maybe I'm spoiled by the—what do you call it—glamor of it all, but Ill never manage a minor league ball club."

Babe's birthday is today. The baseball books say he's 42, but Babe won't have it.

"I'm 43 on the head," he explained a bit sadly, "but I can't tell yet whether I'm just begnning to live. If it's okay with everyone, I'd just as soon be 21 again."

The Pacific coast line of the United States is 1366 miles long.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT

CRIME FILE ON BOLITHO BLANE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOLITHO BLANE, British financier, disappears from yacht owned by his principal competitor, CARLTON ROCKSAVAGE, of Miami. A note found in Blane's cabin, addressed to his secretary NICHOLAS STODART, indicates suicide since he faced bankruptcy. A memo written by Stodart shows Blane's company stock, ARGUS SUDS, closing at a new low that day.

Other passengers aboard yacht GOLDEN GULL are MISS FERRI ROCKSAVAGE, Rocksavage's daughter; LADY WELTER; REGINALD JOCELYN, MRS. JOCELYN, Lady Welter's daughter and son-in-law; the BISHOP OF BUDE; COUNT LUIGI POSODINI and INOSUKE HAYASHI.

Detective Officer KETTERING, boarding the yacht at Miami, finds strange marks on Blane's cabin carpet and blood on the curtain. Upon examination, Rocksavage admits inviting Blane aboard to effect an amalgamation of their companies. It is also revealed that Lady Welter is heavily interested in Rocksavage stocks. Next, the Bishop, under questioning, faints when Stodart enters the room. Subsequently, Hayashi reveals he was aboard endeavoring to sell a huge soap monopoly either to Blane or to Rocksavage. Posodini avers he is aboard merely for pleasure.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX

FROM the foregoing statements it is obvious that, as we have a note in Blane's own hand, scribbled on the back of the leaf torn from Stodart's pocketbook with the share quotations on it, which was sent down to him at 7:45, he must still have been alive at that time.

The steward, Ringbottom, entered his cabin at 8:30 and discovered him to be missing. Therefore, Bolitho Blane must have been murdered between 7:45 and 8:30. The situation of the cabin steward's pantry and Ringbottom's statement, backed by that of the carpenter, Jenks, rules out the possibility of the crime having been committed by any member of the crew.

After I had questioned Count Posodini, Detective Officer Neame told me that he felt certain that this man's face was familiar to him, and that we had him on our criminal records. Every effort should, therefore, be made to obtain full particulars regarding him at once.

Having taken statements from all the guests and the only members of the crew who might possibly have been concerned in the affair I proceeded to analyze their statements.

* * *

TIMES ACCOUNTED FOR BY PRESENCE IN THE LOUNGE.

Analysis of people eliminating each other from suspicion by their presence in the lounge from time when Blane was known to be alive until he was reported missing.

At 7:45—Mrs. Jocelyn, Count Posodini, Mr. Rocksavage, Mr. Stodart.

At 7:45 to 8.00—Steward, Rocksavage, Stodart.

At 8:00 to 8:05—Steward, Rocksavage, Stodart, the Bishop.

At 8:05 to 8:10—Steward, Rocksavage, Stodart, Bishop, Lady Welter.

At 8:10 to 8:15—Steward, Bishop, Stodart, Lady Welter.

At 8:15 to 8:25—Steward, Stodart, Bishop, Lady Welter, Mr. Hayashi.

At 8:25 to 8:30—Steward, Stodart, Bishop, Lady Welter, Hayashi, Posodini.

At 8:30 to 8:32—Steward, Stodart, Bishop, Lady Welter, Hayashi, Posodini, and Mr. and Mrs. Jocelyn.

At 8:32 to 8:33—As above with cabin steward who reported Blane missing.

* * *

UNVOUCHED FOR TIMES

THE following table shows the number of minutes in the period 7:45 to 8:30, when each member of the party was not under direct observation of one of the others and, therefore, at liberty to commit the crime.

MRS. JOCELYN: In the lounge till 7:45. Returned, changed to lounge 8:30. Unvouched for time full period of 45 minutes.

COUNT POSODINI: In lounge till 7:45. Returned changed to lounge at 8:25. Unvouched for time (in period) 40 minutes.

MR. ROCKSAVAGE: In lounge till 8:10. Returned changed to lounge at 8:35. Unvouched for time (in period) 20 minutes.

MR. STODART: In lounge at 7:40. Remained there till 8:33. Unvouched for time (in period) nil.

BISHOP OF BUDE: Came below with Lady Welter at 7:05. In lounge changed at 8:00. Unvouched for time (in period) 15 minutes.

LADY WELTER: Came below with the Bishop at 7:05. In lounge changed at 8:05. Unvouched for time (in period) 20 minutes.

MR. HAYASHI: Went to cabin at 6:10. In lounge changed at 8:15. Unvouched for time (in period) 30 minutes.

MR. JOCELYN: Came below with Miss Rocksavage 7:30 (approx.). In lounge changed at 8:30. Unvouched for time full period of 45 minutes.

MISS ROCKSAVAGE: Came below with Mr. Jocelyn 7:15 (approx.). In lounge changed at 8:40. Unvouched for time full period of 45 minutes.

* * *

THE foregoing tables rule out the lounge steward, Cane, as he was only absent from the lounge for two periods of two minutes each during the time under review.

The only other person who is entirely ruled out is the secretary, Nicholas Stodart, as he was in the lounge during the whole period under review.

I then proceeded to make an analysis of possible motives.

* * *

POSSIBLE MOTIVES

MRS. JOCELYN: Nil, as far as is known at the moment.

COUNT POSODINI: Nil, as far as is known at the moment.

MR. ROCKSAVAGE: Blane's death will send the shares of the Blane companies down to zero and, in their present precarious state, possibly cause them to crash altogether. That would suit Rocksavage's book far better than the proposed amalgamation. Blane also stated his fear that Rocksavage might attempt his life, before he died. Motive in Rocksavage's case is, therefore, strong.

THE BISHOP OF BUDE: Nil, as far as is known at the moment.

LADY WELTER: As the largest holder in the Rocksavage companies she stands to benefit by Blane's death. She may have other assets outside the Rocksavage companies, however, so, although there is motive, in her case it is weak.

MR. HAYASHI: Nil, as far as is known at the moment but, as he is concerned in the world soap interest, he may well have a motive which has not yet come to light.

MR. JOCELYN: Nil, as far as is known at the moment but, as a dependent of Lady Welter, his interest marches with hers, so it is possible that he might have acted at her instigation.

MISS ROCKSAVAGE: Nil, as far as is known at the moment.

Having analyzed the information gained from first statements, as above, I then went below to examine the dead man's property. An inventory disclosed the usual travel apparel, dress suits, shoes, shirts, hats, etc., and in addition two tins (100 each) Balkan Sobranie cigarets, one bottle Phensic, one bottle Gum Tragacanth, a .22 Scott Webley automatic, unloaded, and bullets for same; an electric torch, and a postcard addressed only "Bolitho Blane, Esq.," found in right-hand top dressing table drawer.

The last item on the inventory is of considerable interest as it comes from the Japanese, Inosuke Hayashi. It is on a yacht postcard and, therefore, written after Hayashi's arrival on board.

Former Jacksonville Woman Flees Home In Louisville Flood

Mrs. Rees Browning Escapes Harm; Relative Writes to Mrs. Johnson

Many friends of Mrs. Rees Browning, fromerly of Jacksonville, will be interested to learn of her experience during the flood at Louisville, Ky., which were related in a letter received yesterday by Mrs. C. A. Johnson from her niece, Mrs. Virgie Barcum.

The letter to Mrs. Johnson came in reply to messages sent by her to her relatives at Louisville, after hearing radio calls for boats in the same block as Mrs. Browning's residence.

The letter in part follows:

"I cannot now tell you all the harrowing details but the things you heard on the radio and read in the papers were not a bit exaggerated. We are now at brother Louis' on the highlands and comfortable with their gas heat. We have electric lights and tomorrow will have water all day.

"We left Brook street at midnight Jan. 25 and stepped right out our front door into a canoe and we paddled, perilous as it seemed, about two blocks where it was dry enough for a truck to come and the men carried us and deposited us in a truck.

"We went to Willis' store and spent the rest of the night. The next morning we started on our pilgrimage to Louis' as the city was under martial law and we had many difficulties. They wanted to put us on a train and send us to Crescent Hill, but I refused to go and finally they let us get into a little boat and cross into the highlands.

"The water got into our basement and was eleven inches from the first floor when we left. We stayed too long, but it did not occur to us that the water could get into our house. When we wanted to leave we had a hard time in getting a boat, as they were only taking people who did not have a second story.

"The mail today was the first we have had since the flood. We will have to stay in our present location until we can get things at home in order, and the gas heat turned on."

Funeral Services Held for J. H. Rea

Final Rites Are Conducted Saturday at Murrayville M. E. Church

Funeral services for James Henry Rea were conducted Saturday, at the Murrayville M. E. church, under the direction of the Rev. J. Henry Cox. The choir sang "Sometime We'll Understand," and "Does Jesus Care." Mrs. W. B. Rimbey sang "Shadows."

Flowers were cared for by the Misses Bernice Fearneyhough, Alice Lonergan, Hilda Schlemmer, Della Buster, Marjorie Blimling and Frances Sheppard.

Pall bearers were Messrs. Harry Gollier, Haney Blimling, Ben T. Willis, Chas. E. Irlam, Alvah Schlemmer, and Vertrees Blimling. Interment was made in Murrayville cemetery.

James Henry Rea, son of James and Mary Johnson Rea, was born near Murrayville, March 20, 1890 and died Feb. 3, 1937. He was one of a family of seven children, namely: John W., of Woodson; Mrs. R. Y. Gibson and Mrs. Bryan Sheppard, of Waverly; Mrs. John Akers, Roodhouse; and two sisters who preceded him in death, Miss Bessie and Mrs. J. P. Wright.

On December 25, 1910, he was married to Miss Lennie Osborne, to which union were born the following children: Donald Lee, James Benjamin, Iola May, Violet Ottylee, and Mary Emma at home, and Mrs. Beulah Sunderland of Pleasant Plains. Also one granddaughter, Charlotte Ann Sunderland has been born into the family.

His ancesters were a line of pioneer farmers. He followed their occupation, beginning in Morgan county, then for ten years in North Dakota, and later returning to occupy the old Rea homestead near Woodson, where he spent the remaining days of his life.

After his conversion in young manhood he united, with his mother and sisters, with the Zion M. E. church.

Morgan County Red Cross Relief Fund Totals $4,728.65

Local Chapter Announces Latest List of Contributors Here Saturday

Morgan county residents have contributed $4,728.65 to be used for flood relief purposes, it was announced at the local chapter of the Red Cross yesterday. A number of contributions were made yesterday including the sum of $42 from the Illinois Telephone company employes.

A letter received yesterday by H. J. Rodgers, chairman of the Morgan County Red Cross chapter, from William M. Baxter, Jr., manager of the National Red Cross headquarters, St. Louis, stating that trained and experienced representatives of the Red Cross are on duty throughout the eleven states affected by this disaster. These representatives are working with the officials of the chapters in all of the affected area. "They are in constant touch with the situation as it develops," the letter states. Relief operations in major disasters can only be carried on through the service of hundreds of thousands of volunteers representing the Red Cross and all other agencies who have contributions to make, but the efficiency and the effectiveness of relief is dependent upon the co-ordination of all effort.

"All chapters should endeavor in so far as possible to co-ordinate the services of other agencies with the effort which the Red Cross is making, and to instruct such agencies that they will greatly facilitate all relief work by advising their representatives who may be in the flooded area, to recognize the Red Cross as the clearing house for the administration of relief."

C. P. McClelland, Marjorie Taylor Wed in New York

Announcement Is Made of Wedding of Son of MacMurray President

At three o'clock Sunday afternoon, January 31, Charles Paul McClelland, son of President and Mrs. Clarence P. McClelland, of MacMurray College, was united in marriage with Miss Marjorie Elizabeth Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Taylor, of Buffalo, New York, in a ceremony at the apartment of the bridegroom's grandparents, Judge and Mrs. Charles P. McClelland, Sussex Hall, Dobbs Ferry, New York. The officiating minister was the Reverend John Pearson, pastor of the Summerfield Methodist Episcopal church, of Dobbs Ferry; palms on either side of the prie-dieu, ferns and roses made an attractive background for the ceremony. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Charles Schumann, of New York City, and Charles Sweeney, of Nutley, New Jersey, Mr. McClelland's roommate at Wesleyan University, served as best man.

Following the ceremony, refreshments were served in the dining room, and the wedding cake, which came from Edinburg, Scotland, was cut and boxed by the grandmother and aunts of the groom, Mrs. Charles P. McClelland and Mrs. Clare P. Fields, of Dobbs Ferry, and Mrs. Louis DeVoursney Day, of Summit, New Jersey. Wedding guests included immediate relatives of the bride and groom and a few of their college friends.

Mrs. McClelland graduated from the Buffalo Art Institute in 1935, ranking first in her class; she also assisted in teaching during her senior year and was offered a position on the Institute faculty, but preferred to go to New York where she became a member of the staff of the Jean Sardou Studios, a position which she resigned a short time before her marriage.

After graduating from the Jacksonville high school in 1930 Mr. McClelland took his A. B. at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Connecticut, in 1934, where he was a member of his father's fraternity, Alpah Delta Phi.

He was awarded a teaching fellowship by the University and in 1936 obtained his M. A. degree, majoring in chemistry. Last July he took a position with the United Carbon and Carbide Chemical Corporation in Pittsburgh and was assigned to the Mellon Institute for six months' intensive experience in research.

After a short visit in New York City, Mr. and Mrs. McClelland went to Pittsburgh, where they will take up their residence.

MODERN METHODS OF COOKING WILL BE DEMONSTRATED

Modern methods of cooking with the pressure cooker, which is an outstanding time and money saver, will be the subject of discussion and instruction at the Montgomery Ward Cooking Demonstration to be held at the Ward store here on Tuesday, through Saturday at 2 o'clock each day. The school was announced today by O. A. Smith, store manager, who extended an invitation to the public.

Admission is free.

"Due to scientific advance which has produced modern methods of cooking under pressure, a number of important factors have entered into the science and fine art of cooking," said O. A. Smith, manager, in commenting on the school. "It is now possible to cook an entire meal in from 10 to 30 minutes and to produce tender, delicious dishes from cheaper cuts of meat because of the pressure cooking method. This school has been organized by Montgomery Ward to provide the very latest information on the subject to housewives and all who are interested."

Alleged Kidnapers Are Arrested; Spies Story Is Changed At Alton

According to a telephone message from State's Attorney Oscar Zachary, from Alton, shortly after midnight this (Sunday) morning, the alleged kidnaping case which had officers in Central Illinois on the chase for 16 hours, came to a sudden end shortly before midnight when the principals in the case admitted that the affair was a hoax.

State's Attorney Zachary said James Spies of Chicago, who claimed his wife had been kidnaped, near here early Saturday morning, was not married to the woman, his admission coming after the three alleged kidnapers had been arrested in Alton. It is expected the three men will be released from the Alton jail this morning.

First reports of the kidnaping came to the Jacksonville police department about 3:45 o'clock Saturday morning when a man stopped at the home of S. E. Ogburn on the Morton Road and asked him to call the officers, that three bandits had kidnaped his wife.

Captain Williams, Patrolman Howard Stout and Sheriff Kenneth Woods answered the call and found a man who gave his name as James Spies, of Chicago, at the Ogburn home.

Picked Up By Trio.

Spies told the officers that he and his wife had been hitch-hiking from Cairo, Ill., to Chicago when they were picked up by three men three miles south of Alton. The Chicago man added that when the car reached a point about one-half mile south of the junction of Routes 104 and 36, the three men said that they were going back to Alton. Spies told the officers that he and his wife alighted from the car and that one of the men struck him knocking him down. The two other men, he said, forced his wife back into the car and started south.

The Jacksonville officers went as far as Pisgah and finding no trace of the missing woman returned to police headquarters and called the state broadcasting station to spread an alarm. The Alton police were given a direct call. Later in the morning Sheriff Woods went to Waverly inspecting all roads between Jacksonville and Waverly. He found no trace of the missing woman.

Saturday afternoon Sheriff Woods and State's Attorney Zachary went to Alton to work on the case. Last night with the aid of the Alton police they located the three men and the woman. The men gave their names as Allen King, Lloyd Laird and Grady Rice, all residents of Alton.

According to Mr. Zachary, the woman admitted that her name was Catherine Kichs, and that her home was in St. Louis, Mo.

No Kidnaping.

The officers learned from the quartet that there had been no kidnaping. They claimed that Spies had met the Kichs woman in St. Louis three days ago and started for Chicago on the hard road. They were picked up by the three Alton men who drove them toward Jacksonville. During the trip an argument arose and when almost to this city, Spies was thrown out of the car after being struck by one of the men during a fight.

After hearing the stories of all those concerned in the case the Jacksonville officers decided that there was no reason to believe that there had been a kidnaping and the suspects will all be released this morning.

Alton, Ill., Feb. 6.—(AP)—Chief of Police Gus Rotsch said tonight three men hunted all day as the abductors of Mrs. Catherine Spies, 19-year-old hitch-hiker, were in custody here, but that charges probably would not be brought against them. Chief Rotsch said he was convinced it was not a kidnaping.

James Spies, 22, who said he was a former Cairo, Ill., bartender, told Jacksonville police early today the two were hitch-hiking from Cairo to Chicago when three men offered to take them north. He reported they later knocked him out of the car and drove off with the girl he claimed to be his wife.

Chief Rotsch said the girl was identified as Catherine Kichs of St. Louis. He said the men were identified as Allen King, Lloyd Laird and G. Rice, all of Alton. He quoted the trio and the girl as stating they "just gave her a ride" and took her to her home in St. Louis then returned to their homes here. He quoted the girl as saying she "willingly accepted the ride to St. Louis."

Mrs. Mary Jaeger's Body Found Several Days After Death

Heart Attack Believed to Have Caused Death at Home During Week

The barking of a small dog and the fact that she had not been seen about her home for several days, led to the discovery of the body of Mrs. Mary Jaeger, 64, in her home in Jones Place, last night about 9 o'clock. Mrs. Jaeger, a practical nurse, is believed to have been dead for several days.

The woman returned last Saturday from near Franklin where she had been engaged for some time on a nursing case. Neighbors had not seen her since that time, supposing that she had left home again.

Fear that Mrs. Jaeger may have been stricken in the home where she lived alone was expressed yesterday by neighbors, who communicated with her brother, John Murphy of this city. Mr. Murphy went to the home and found it locked, but heard a dog barking inside.

He called neighbors, and together with State Highway Patrolman Harvey Dowling and city police the group entered the house, finding the body of Mrs. Jaeger on the kitchen floor.

Indications were that she was stricken by a heart attack as she prepared to light a stove. Death may have occurred on the night she arrived home, or early in the week.

For a number of years Mrs. Jaeger was employed at the Norbury sanatorium, but recently she had been doing other nursing work.

She was born in this city, a daughter of Arthur and Margaret Murphy, and when a young woman was united in marriage with Louis Jaeger, who preceded her in death. A son, Clarence, also is deceased.

Mrs. Jaeger leaves one brother and two sisters, John Murphy, Mrs. Anna Smith and Miss Celia Murphy, all of this city; a niece and nephew, Armeada Smith and Sherman Smith. Three sisters preceded her in death.

The remains were removed to the Williamson Funeral Home. Coroner Elmer Sample is preparing to conduct an inquest today.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at 8:30 o'clock at the Church of Our Saviour.

Bountiful Spread Of Bargains For Every Wise Dollar Spender

The buying public of Jacksonville and the surrounding trade area is invited to another one of those semi-annual bargain banquets prepared and served by merchants of this city over their counters on Dollar Day. Tuesday, February 9, is the date. The accompanying advertisements set forth the menu, one of the most bountiful ever spread for the people who want to make a dollar go as far as possible.

This section has passed through a period of unseasonable weather, and merchants are caught with their shelves loaded with goods of high quality and wide variety, which they want to sell. Prices are going higher, a fact which cannot be disputed in view of present business conditions and the increased demand for materials caused by wholesale destruction of property in midwestern floods. The present bargains will not be available for long. Another time it will be impossible for merchants to offer them.

Those who have consistently patronized Jacksonville merchants on Dollar Day know that advertised bargains are really all that they are set forth to be. They know that it pays to buy in this city on Dollar Day, that money spent for merchandise offered in these sales is economically spent. This time the assortment of bargains is rich indeed. Goods of every description, necessities and even luxuries are offered in the Tuesday sale.

Merchants have made every effort to give the public the benefit of rock-bottom prices, and in this time of jumping values and heavy demand for goods, that is no small feat. But the job has been done, as anyone reading the advertising can see at a glance. It is therefore up to shoppers to come early and buy with an eye to the future, to lay in supplies against the day when they will cost far more than at present.

Every business establishment that could offer a bargain is participating in this Dollar Day sale. Merchants consider this a good opportunity to clear their shelves for the spring merchandise that will soon be coming along. They also desire to give Jacksonville buyers more for their money than ever before. The banquet call has been sounded. The date is Tuesday, Feb. 9; the place is Jacksonville. Prompt and courteous service will be given to all comers in all stores. The test of the bargains is in the buying. "YOU ARE INVITED."

Hugh Green Tells Of Important Bills Presented in House

Gives Survey of First Fifteen Measures Introduced; Asks Suggestions

That the present General Assembly will consider and probably pass many laws of vital importance to the people of the state is indicated in a survey of the first fifteen bills introduced into the House of Representatives, is the opinion of Representative Hugh Green of this city, who is now busy attending legislative sessions.

House Bills 1 and 2 deal with women on juries. It will be remembered that the law which authorized woman jury service in this state was declared unconstitutional. At every session since the ladies lost out, they have had bills in the legislature designed to meet the constitutional requirements and return to jury service. This time the first two bills introduced are designed to restore women jurors.

H. B. 3 is a bill that would give the state Commerce Commission power to compel the use of metal materials in the operation of mobile apparatus operating any street railroad. Any such apparatus now in use which does not satisfy specifications of the commission, shall be withdrawn immediately from service and shall not be restored to service until remodeled to satisfy the commission's safety requirements. Six months are allowed to make replacements. This bill grows out of the recent elevated railway crashes in Chicago, in which wooden coaches were splintered and several persons lost their lives.

H. B. 4 would change the liquor licensing provisions to permit package goods sold under a Class B license to be sold in the original package off the licensed premises. It also makes the license fee for a foreign impolter distributor $500.

Ask Driver's License

H. B.'s 6, 7 and 8 deal with driver's license and automobile driver's responsibility. For several sessions attempts have been made to place a driver's license law on the statue books. This time the bills are being introduced early.

H. B. 13 seems to amend the Old Age pension act to fix the pension at $1 per day minimum, and that regardless of the responsibility of children. The state has found difficulty in enforcing the requirement that children provide for aged parents where they are able to do so.

H. B. 14 provides that agricultural vehicles on highways need not secure automobile licenses. Just what would constitute an agricultural vehicle would be a problem for the auto license division.

The fifteenth bill introduced in the House is one of prime importance. It would make any connection with the crime of kidnaping punishable by death.

Mr. Green stated that as yet he has introduced no bills in the House. If anyone from his constituency has a bill he would like to have presented, he should get in touch with the local legislator, and his request will receive prompt attention. At other sessions of the General Assembly Mr. Green has sponsored measures which have been of great benefit to this city and county.

Picture Published In Local Newspapers Nearly Year Ago Starts a Romance

Louisiana Girl and Morgan County Boy Get Acquainted Through Letters; Marry Twenty Hours After Seeing Each Other First Time.

Bride "Believes" She is Going to Like Illinois; Smiles About Romance.

Editor's Note: From a 20-acre government resettlement project plot of ground on which she guided the plow while her parents pulled and tugged through rooty, stubbled soil, to a 400-acre farm where the plowing is to be done by tractors is the leap made by the girl in this story who didn't see her husband until twenty hours before she was married. The romance, sparkling with deep interest originating in a picture published in the Journal and Courier, came to light this week when Mrs. Harry Killam, correspondent for these newspapers in the Markham neighborhood, heard it. It reads almost like fiction but is true. It is the story of devotion to family on the part of the girl, and of admiration which burst into love on the part of the boy and the girl.

A Morgan county boy and a Louisiana girl saw each other for the first time Jan. 22. The following day they went to the post office to get the mail. On the way the boy said, with a smile flickering across his face:

"Let's get married."

She nodded her head and about an hour and a half later they went before Justice of the Peace J. M. Coleman, a friend of the girl's family, in LaSalle parish court house in Louisiana and in the presence of his brother, the bride's father and the bride's brother, they said the simple marriage vows. Today, they are on a farm about four and a half miles west of Jacksonville.

It was neither the beginning nor the ending of a romance, but the culmination of a determined effort on the part of the Morgan county youth to marry a girl whose picture he first saw in the Jacksonville Journal in April, 1936, and to whom he wrote letters about once a month over a period a little less than a year.

Picture Starts Interest

The picture that excited the young man's interest depicted the girl guiding a plow while her parents provided the motive power. Hundreds of Jacksonville people remember the picture, which appeared in both the Journal and Courier and with it the explanation of what the federal government was doing to rehabilitate families whose livelihood was affected by the low prices and the Agricultural Adjustment Act. This family had had no horse for three years to plow the acres from which they obtained their living, but undeterred by the lack of horsepower, they harnessed themselves to the plow and began cultivation of their land.

For two years the family fought through the depression, gradually losing in the fight. Then they were accepted for a government rehabilitation project, and placed on a 20-acre plot of ground near Jena, Louisiana. There they pulled the plow through the most difficult kind of ground to prepare the land for cotton and white corn, the chief products of the district.

Federal authorities learned of their plight, and found them a horse. Newspaper photographers appeared on the scene and took pictures. The pictures went out all over the nation and were published in hundreds of newspapers, including the local newspapers.

Intrigued

Russell Ankrom, 21, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ankrom of Route 1, this city, was intrigued. He saw the picture of the slender girl, Ruth, then 17, holding the plow which her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Green, pulled through the ground at Jena, Louisiana. He studied the picture, looked at it several times, and then made up his mind. He would write to the girl.

The decision reached, Russell, who looks on life with deep interest and a sense of gladness, sat down and wrote a letter, telling Ruth that he had seen her picture in the paper, and that he admired the "spunk" of the family to carry on against disheartening odds. The letter miscarried and went to Lynn, La., and then came back to Russell.

That trick of fate might have spoiled a romance for some people, but Russell is not the type to become discouraged. He tried again. He came to the Journal and Courier office, looked through the files of the newspaper, and obtained the correct address. Away went the letter again, this time to Jena, La.

Ruth says that Russell's first letter was just another one of several she received following publication of these pictures. Letters came to her from Nebraska, from California, from Louisiana, from Tennessee—and Illinois. Ruth says she answered all of her letters. None of them proposed marriage, but they all called for an answer, for they all spoke of admiration for the family's determination. Russell's, at that time, was just another of the letters that received an answer.

Russell, however, had other ideas. He answered the letter and a few months later, sent her his photograph. She had no photographs to send him, and the only way Russell could determine what she looked like was from the newspaper picture which he had torn from the Journal and kept in his room. Regularly, as rapidly as Ruth answered his letters, he wrote to her, never mentioning anything about marriage, nor love, but writing of things about which he was interested, farming, tractors, corn, wheat and other grains.

Ruth Is Shy

Ruth is shy. She wouldn't express her opinions about those early letters, but she answered them. She had seen life in its most depressing circumstances. She was raised on a farm about five miles from the place where the government established her family on a re-settlement project, and had gone through eight grades of public school before she was called upon to help the family. Her father, a share-cropper, had his earnings almost completely taken away by the Agricultural Adjustment act, and the family was forced to curtail its expenditures. When they moved to the resettlement project, it wasn't much of a job. The family picked up the furniture and went to the 20 acres allotted them by the government.

The parents were accustomed to privation. For two years before they moved to the government resettlement project they had been pulling their plow through the tough, weedy ground to prepare for putting in a cotton and corn crop. Ruth learned to guide the plow. It was during their first year on the resettlement homestead that administration officers discovered their plight. They went out and bought Selum, a $65 truck horse, and presented him to the Greens with the understanding that they re-imburse the project for the horse. The story leaked out and newspaper men snatched at the human interest appeal. They took pictures and wrote stories.

Motion picture men came as soon as the story had been broadcast. The Greens did their turn for the news reels.

Appears In News Reel

Leslie, a young brother of Russell, came to the Fox Illinois theater one night and suddenly, on the screen, came a picture of the Green family, toiling through the soil, pulling the plow, with Ruth guiding. Leslie, aware of his brother's interest in the Greens, told his brother about the newsreel and it fanned Russell's interest.

Steadily the correspondence went along. Then, with all of the farm work here well in hand, the two brothers told their parents they were going on a trip through the south, probably to the Gulf of Mexico. The parents did not voice any objections to Russell's plans to take camping equipment, a new International pick-up truck, and make the trip. Leslie fell in with the plans readily, because it meant a vacation for him.

The parents were not surprised about the decision to make the trip south. They knew of Russell's deep interest in the family he had never seen, and particularly in the girl he had seen only in pictures. They had a suspicion of what might be brewing, but Russell said nothing about marriage, and Leslie wasn't just sure what his brother intended to do.

Then, on January 20, of this year, the two boys set out. They found flood waters in their path, but that didn't stop them. Russell had written to Ruth, advising her that he was coming to see her, but did not state that he would be there at any specific time. In Missouri the boys had a little truck trouble and were delayed for a day. They drove over 325 miles of highway with water standing on both sides of the road. Russell says it was not a very inviting project, but he wanted to get to Jena. Several of the highways he had planned to follow were closed.

Sees Ruth First Time

January 22, at 3:15 in the afternoon, Russell saw Ruth for the first time. They talked of minor things, Russell talked with the family, and met Ruth's sister, Mrs. Alice Hasseltine Miller and her brother Artie. Nothing was said about marriage that afternoon or that night.

But the next morning Ruth and Russell started for the post-office to get the mail. While they were walking down the street, Russell made up his mind. Russell, in describing his wife's answer to his proposal, says:

"She didn't say a thing, but just nodded her head."

During the next half hour Ruth and Russell went through the preliminaries of getting married. They found Ruth's father and he gave his consent. They took out a marriage license and then went over to Judge Coleman's office in the court house. The judge was delighted to marry the young couple. They told him of the events which led up to the marriage, and after performing the service, the judge went over to see the editor of the Jena Times, a weekly newspaper. The kindly judge turned in the marriage notice and then told the editor something about the romance. Photographers came again to the Green household, and again the home was the scene of joyful activity.

The deputy registrar of public schools and two deputies, acquainted with the Green family, served as witnesses to the ceremony, although Ruth's father, her brother Artie, and Russell's brother, Leslie were present.

Quietly the young couple remained in the Green home for two days, while Leslie, feeling that he was something like an unnecessary wheel, took the truck and went to Natchez, Mississippi, for a two day visit.

When Leslie came back, Russell and his wife packed their belongings into the truck, and set out on their return trip to Morgan county. Floods blocked their path, and they had to make a circuitous trip to get back, but they came through in two days, arriving here a week ago Wednesday.

"Were your parents surprised" was the next question put to Russell.

"Well, they were surprised to see me back so soon, but I don't believe they were surprised that I brought home a bride," said Russell as he looked at his wife with a smile.

About the first of April, Russell and his bride will go to Ashland where Russell has leased a 400 acre farm, known as the Baxter place. There he and his wife will start life together. Russell has been working with his father on the place known as the Harvey Scott farm, where the family has been cultivating 240 acres.

Ruth has seen snow before, and she says she believes she will like Illinois fine. She is shy, doesn't talk much, but her wide set eyes, the mold of her chin, and the tilt of her head indicate something more valuable . . . determination and intelligence. She has a musical voice, and speaks with a slight southern accent.

Russell's big interest is tractors. He sees in them the power to cultivate 160 acres of corn, and more acres of small grains. He has no fear of tackling a 400 acre farming job. He'll have the tractors and trucks to make things hum. He confesses that he doesn't know anything about radio and doesn't have any longing to learn much about it, or about politics, or other common conversational topics, but he can talk at length on the stroke of a piston, the take-off shafts, and other things pertaining to tractors and trucks.

Lois, his ruby cheeked, merry sister, when asked what she thought about the bride, laughed charmingly.

"We think it's grand. Ruth's really a lot of fun."

Leslie brought back a lot of long-leaved firs and a couple holly trees. These he has planted in a large box in the house, the only mementoes of the trip during which his brother got his wife. The holly trees are almost dead—but the long leafed pines give promise of becoming full sized trees.

Horse Frees Couple From Plow

Selum's only a $65 truck horse, but to the Greens of Jena, La., he comes as the noblest of steeds. The reason? No longer will Farmer Paul J. Green and his wife have to yoke themselves to the plow, as shown above, to break the tough, weedy, root-studded ground on their cotton farm, as poverty has forced them to do for the last three years. An executive of the Resettlement Administration Board heard of their plight and amazing struggle, and lent them money to buy Selum, with which the Greens and their daughter, Ruth, 17, are shown below. And now Selum is the pampered pet of the family.

Here Is the Happy Couple

It's a long jump from a 20-acre plot of ground to a 400 acre farm, but Mrs. Russell Ankrom, who was Ruth Green when the picture at the top of this column was made, believes she is going to like it. Here are Russell and Ruth Ankrom, who graciously came out of his father's home to pose for the cameraman.

"That's the Picture"

Smiling animatedly, Russell here is showing his wife the picture which led him to write her a letter. The picture, the same as the one published above, was printed in the April 17 issue of the Courier and the following issue of the Journal. Russell still has the original clipping.

Through Water 325 Miles

High water failed to dampen the determination of Russell to see the girl to whom he had been writing letters for about ten months. With his brother, Leslie, they drove 325 miles over highways which were bordered by water on both sides of the road. Russell brought his bride back to Morgan county in the new pick-up truck shown in the picture, and had to take a round-about way home in order to avoid flood waters.

"She's Lots of Fun" Sister Says

And you can take it from Lois, Russell's younger sister, that Ruth is lots of fun. Mrs. Ankrom found a lot of things different on Illinois farms than on the Louisiana farms. The place where the Ankroms live is serviced by one of the rural electrification lines. Here are Ruth, Russell and Lois standing in the well house. Water from the well is pumped over the farm by electricity. Russell wired the well house and installed the motor which is used to operate the pump. Lois wasn't ready to have her picture taken, but the merry good humor of the whole family got the better of her and she stayed on the well platform long enough to have her picture taken.

Stocks Execute a Rally After Loss

New York, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Stocks executed a quick turn-about in today's market under the leadership of steels and rails and prices rallied fractions to around 4 points over a broad range.

Traders who dumped holdings yesterday, following the president's message to Congress calling for a drastic reform of the Federal Judiciary, started early to reinstate their positions. They found offerings few and far-between, however, and, in the final hour, bids were boosted rapidly.

The recovery from Friday's attack of nerves apparently was aided by renewed hopes that progress was being made in negotiations to settle the General Motors strike. This stock, off nearly a point in the first period, finished up ¼ at 68. Chrysler advanced 1¼ at 127¼.

Spurring the come-back also were favorable net income operating statements from principal railroads and indications steel mill operations will mount to still greater heights during the next several months.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was up.6 of a point at 72.8 compared with a loss of .8 in the preceding session. Transfers totalled 1,453,480 shares compared with 1,194,730 last Saturday.

Farm and Rural Interest

Dogs Raid Sheep and Poultry Flocks Near Virginia And Leave Trail of Damage; Schuyler County Hires Home Adviser; Roy Coon Heads Scott County Program.

Farmers throughout Cass county have been complaining in recent weeks of losses of sheep and chickens which are being killed in great numbers by stray dogs.

Raymond Marr, of near Virginia reports that 74 chickens were killed last week by a dog which got into his hen house. Many chickens were also killed on the farm of T. L. Barber and the farm of Jess Mefford was the scene of one of the losses, a number of chickens and 50 ducks having been killed there.

Tracks according to the farmers, indicate that the killers were dogs.

In addition to the chickens and ducks being killed, 7 sheep were killed on the William Petefish farm.

Schuyler County Has New Home Adviser

Miss Phyllis V. White of Dallas Center, Ia., has been employed as home adviser for the newly organized Schuyler-Brown Home bureau. She is expected to come to Rushville within the next few days to take over the work. Her office will be in the farm bureau building, where she will welcome all members of the organization.

Farm Adviser Resigns Duties at Carlinville

H. A. Keele, president of the Macoupin County Farm bureau, announced the resignation of T. H. Brock, who has served as farm adviser for the last year, to take effect April 1. Mr. Brock has accepted a similar position as farm adviser of Woodford county with headquarters at Eureka. A committee has been appointed by the board of directors of the Macoupin organization to take steps toward filling the vacancy at the earliest possible date.

Mr. Brock went to Carlinville last year from Taylorville. He took the place of W. F. Coolidge, who came to Jacksonville as farm adviser of Morgan county.

Roy S. Coon Heads Scott County Soil Committee

Roy S. Coon, who farms 640 acres of land near Florence, was elected president of the Scott County Agricultural Conservation Association for 1937 at a formal organization meeting which members of the board of directors held at Winchester.

As in 1936 program, the association will be the official local agency through which farmers will cooperate with Farm Adviser George H. Reid, the State Agricultural Conservation committee, the extension service of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois and the AAA in advancing the better farming principles of the agricultural conservation program.

Officers elected to serve with President Coon during the coming year are: vice president, David Leonhard, of Bluffs; third member of the county committee, J. C. Barnett, Winchester, alternate, Clifford Mills, Bluffs; secretary-treasurer, Clyde North, Winchester.

Members of the board of directors, which is made up of J. C. Barnett, Clifford Mills, David Leonhard, J. P. Wright and Walter Scott.

Farm Credit Heads Are Re-elected

F. W. Niemeyer, general agent of the Farm Credit Administration of St. Louis, and chairman of the boards of the four constituent units was re-elected to these offices for 1937 by the directors of the Federal Land bank at its annual meeting held in January. All senior executives of the four credit institutions comprising the Farm Credit Administration were re-elected. The board of the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis, also serves as the board of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Louis, the Production Credit Corporation of St. Louis, and the St. Louis Bank for Cooperatives.

In addition to Mr. Niemeyer, Farm Credit executives elected were: Guy V. Head, general counsel; C. S. Hale, assistant general counsel; and W. H. Droste, comptroller.

Food Lists Tell What To Buy for Health

Welcome news to the homemaker who has to budget food money is the fact that made-to-order methods of buying are now being offered by U.S. food specialists, Rowena Carpenter and Hazel Stiebeling.

Finding that homemakers with $16.25 a week spending money for food are having almost as hard a time to feed families adequately as homemakers with only $9.15, these nutritionists have set up lists of kinds and amounts of foods to buy, according to Miss Harriet Barto, assistant professor in dietetics, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Choosing the average family of four—father, mother, boy age 10 and girl 8, the nutritionists figured the difference in a week's minimum cost.

To maintain adequate family health, they recommend that homemakers on liberal and moderate basis buy 21 quarts of milk a week; homemakers on minimum basis, 17½ quarts of milk a week.

Concerning common fruits and vegetables, nutritionists recommend nine pound of potatoes a week for the liberal diet, 10 pounds for the moderate diet and 11 pounds for the minimum diet. The point is that potatoes are a relatively inexpensive source of fuel, iron and vitamin C and are filling, Miss Barto says.

Tomatoes, fresh or canned, and citrus fruits increase in amounts from nine to seven to four pounds a week as the income goes down. Same thing is true for leafy, green and yellow vegetables, amounts changing from ten to eight to seven pounds. On the other hand, because dried beans and peas and peanut butter are inexpensive but nourishing, amounts recommended for purchase are liberal diet, one-half pound; moderate diet, one pound and minimum diet, two pounds. Dried fruits used only to the amount of one pound a week on the liberal diet, where more fresh fruits are available, rise to two pounds on the moderate diet and one and one-half on the minimum diet. Other fruits and vegetables can be purchased in larger amounts and variety on the liberal cost budget.

Providing two and one-third dozen eggs on the liberal diet and one and one-third dozen on the moderate and minimum diets permits four to six eggs a week for each person with some extra for cooking in the liberal diet and two to three eggs for each adult and four to five eggs for each child a week on either moderate or minimum diets.

Meat, fish or poultry is provided once or twice a day in the liberal diet, about five times a week in the moderate diet and three or four times a week in the minimum diet when the following amounts are purchased: liberal diet, 11 pounds; moderate diet, seven pounds; minimum, four and one-half pounds. Cheaper meat must be bought for the moderate cost and minimum cost diets, says Miss Barto.

Cereal products, including flour, breakfast cereals, rice, macaroni, bread and crackers, range from seven pounds on the liberal diet to 11 for moderate diet and 15 pounds on the minimum diet. This allows one to two servings of cereal a day at the minimum level and is done in order to provide energy at low cost, explains Miss Barto.

Bread and butter are planned for at every meal in the liberal and moderate cost diets, and bread in generous amount and a butter substitute in the minimum-cost diet. Weekly amounts of fats, including butter, margarines, lard, oils, and bacon, range between 3 to 3½ pounds.

Sugars including jams, jellies, honey and sirups, average between 3 and 3½ pounds a week. As for accessories like coffee and tea, soda, cocoa and seasonings, considerably less is spent in the moderate and minimum cost diets.

Livestock Prices Mostly Unchanged

Chicago, Feb. 6. — (AP) — Livestock prices were unchanged at the week's 25 to 75 cents advance today.

Increased values, resulting largely from sharply curtailed marketings of livestock here and at other principal markets this week, restored prices to a position about equal with the best time of the previous week.

A scattering of hogs sold today at unchanged to shade lower quotations. Top was $10.35. Nothing was done in cattle and sheep.

Hogs gained 35 to 50 cents during the week while cattle advanced 25 to 75 cents and fat lambs 50 to 65 cents.

Strictly good and choice cattle led the upturn in that department of trade while most other classes except vealers followed the steer peak of $14.50 matched the 12-months high scored in mid-January.

The closing lamb top of $11 was equal to the previous winter peak and was the highest lambs have sold in February in six years.

The reduction in livestock supplies accompanied some improvement in dressed meat trade. Dressed pork cuts gained 1 to 3 cents a pound wholesale.

Wheat Registers Late 2 Cent Gain

Chicago, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Agitated over reports that large purchases of Canadian wheat afloat are being made for Europe, wheat prices here shot upward about two cents late today.

Many stop-loss orders to buy futures were disclosed in the wheat market's rapid advance.

Winnipeg quotations jumped nearly four cents from an early low point, and foreign houses at Winnipeg were reported the leading buyers there.

Considerable notice, too, was taken of reports of dust storms in western Nebraska, although heavy snowfalls were also reported in other sections of the state.
